Bribery Charged in Poison Plot Probe

EUROPE UNITING ON TRADE PACT

Today

Mr. Ochs' Illness.
President Hoover on Beer.
Russia Collapses Slowly.
Plenty of Great Ones.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

IT IS GOOD news that Adolph S. Ochs, editor and owner of the New York Times, is recuperating satisfactorily from a serious operation performed two weeks ago. Anxiety disappears with news of his successful convalescence.

TO ALL that have advocated, as Thomas Jefferson did, the use of light wine and beer as an antidote to poisonous whisky, it is interesting to know that President Hoover fourteen years ago shared the Jefferson theory.

Senator Sheppard, of Texas, urged Mr. Hoover, then food administrator, to stop beer brewing because it consumed "four million bushels of grain monthly."

We were saving all food resources then, grain, sugar, meat, etc., for shipment to our dear friends abroad, that now refer to our government as Uncle Shylock.

At that time President Hoover wrote Senator Shepherd:

"If you stop brewing, the saloons of the country will still be open, but confined practically to a whisky and gin basis."

You will note that President Hoover in 1918 foresaw prohibition's results.

His letter also said:

"It is mighty difficult to get drunk on two and three-quarters per cent beer. It will be easy enough if we force a substitution of distilled drink for it."

President Hoover had sound ideas on alcoholic mixtures in 1918, and his wise words on beer as compared with whisky and gin recall Thomas Jefferson's letter, recommending to the assembly of Virginia a British brewer called Capt. Miller. Jefferson wrote:

"He is about to settle in our country, and to establish a brewery, in which art I think him as skillful a man as has ever come to America. I wish to see this beverage become common instead of the whisky which kills one-third of our citizens and ruins their families. He is staying with me until he can fix himself."

AN AMERICAN architect, Mr. Hamilton, of East Orange, New Jersey, shares with two Russians first prize in competing for a great Russian palace to be erected on the site where the Church of Christ the Redeemer stood, before Russia tore it down.

Our best minds say:

It seems to collapse rather slowly. And the discovery of great new Russian oil fields, in the Ural, may help delay the collapse.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW says there are "no great men or great women" alive or dead and "people believe in them as they used to believe in dragons and unicorns."

Shaw is mistaken. There have been and there are great men and women. Pasteur was one, Edison another, Copernicus, Tycho-Brae, Kepler, Galileo, Descartes and Newton were six others coming, by the way, from six different countries.

Every mother who devotes her life to her children is a great woman. Every father who devotes his life and energies to his family is a great man. For in all "greatness" the chief ingredient is—"goodness."

THE DEATH of Thomas Bata, killed in Czechoslovakia yesterday when his private plane crashed, is a great loss to the industrial world. Born 56 years ago in Moravia, he was the son of a poor cobbler, learned his father's trade and 38 years ago had a shop with 50 employes.

When he died, flying over one of his many factories, he dominated the manufacturing of shoes throughout the world, made gigantic shipments to this country in spite of the tariff, and was called in Europe "the Henry Ford of Europe."

His death is a calamity. His life proved that opportunity is always at hand for those that combine courage with ability.

THE CASE of Smith Reynolds, only 20 years old, who had inherited twenty millions, married two women, and died, by suicide or the bullet of an assassin, drags along. The Coroner's jury says the young man was killed "by a person or persons unknown," not excluding suicide.

Sheriff Scott, of Winston-Salem, N. C., says he will continue investigating. Facts published are painfully enlightening, including stories of debauchery, drunkenness and wild living. They convince any doubters that alcohol actually is sold under our system of prohibition.

The tragedy of this boy, who inherited twenty millions, may help to reconcile parents to their inability to leave wealth to their children.

AMELIA EARHART PUTNAM

AMELIA BREAKS RUTH'S MARK

NEWARK, N. J., July 13.—(AP.)—Amelia Earhart Putnam landed here at 12:26:05 p. m., establishing a new women's transcontinental flight record.

Mrs. Putnam beat the time of Miss Ruth Nichols, the previous record holder, by almost 10 hours. Miss Nichols, who made one stop between West and East coasts, at Wichita, Kan., had an elapsed time of 29 hours 1 minute 43 seconds. Mrs. Putnam stopped once also, at Columbus, O., and her elapsed time was 19 hours 14 minutes and 40 seconds, and her flying time 17 hours 59 minutes and 40 seconds. She indicated her flight was for practice in navigation. She said she may make the flight in a faster ship, with 12 hours as her goal.

Mrs. Putnam intended, when she took off from Los Angeles yesterday, to make the first non-stop flight by a woman from coast to coast and to try to beat the non-stop record established by Frank Hawks five years ago. This record was 17 hours, 38 minutes and 59 seconds.

Chaplin Fights Levy As Richest in Films

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—(AP.)—Charlie Chaplin, who made his money by making people laugh, fails to see anything funny in the county tax assessor's office announcement he is the film colony's richest man as measured in terms of taxable property.

The film comedian has asked for a recount, claiming his taxable property, set by the assessor at $6,687,570, is a bit excessive. He claims his securities now have a value of but $1,657,316. A hearing will be held Thursday.

LIBBY HOME, ON VERGE OF COLLAPSE

Gun Mystery Deepens Reynolds Death Puzzle

As Libby Holman Reynolds reached Cincinnati, her old home, in a state of near-collapse today, authorities at Winston-Salem, N. C., continued their investigation into the mysterious shooting to death of her husband, Smith Reynolds, youthful heir to tobacco millions, with these questions uppermost in their minds:

1—Did Smith Reynolds or someone else write the notation, "Smith Reynolds, born 1911; died shortly afterwards of old age," into the Reynolds family Bible?

2—Why was the .32 caliber Mauser gun with which Reynolds was killed not found during the first four times the sun porch at the Reynolds home was searched, only to turn up on the fifth search by officers?

3—What did Ab Walker, lifetime friend of the dead youth, mean when he said that something had happened at the time of the tragedy which he would carry as a secret to his grave?

Although Walker is in seclusion and Libby Holman, her actress friend, Blanche Yurka, and all the other principals and guests at the fatal party have departed the scene, Sheriff Transou Scott has said that the case is not closed, and a grand jury now sitting is prepared to take up the matter should the evidence warrant.

Libby Arrives Home, Near Collapse

CINCINNATI, O., July 13.—(INS.)—Successfully eluding curious crowds, Libby Holman Reynolds arrived at Clare, an isolated railroad junction eight miles out of Cincinnati, today and was rushed away secretively to the fashionable home of her sister, Mrs. Myron Kahn, in Wyoming, a suburb.

A limousine belonging to the Holman family met the tragic-faced widow of the late Smith Reynolds, 20-year-old heir to tobacco millions, and whisked her away.

FRENZIED DASH

The arrival was described as a frenzied dash from sleeping car to automobile. Miss Holman was closely bundled and her face was scarcely discernible.

Her father, Alfred Holman, half pushed and carried her from the

Ringling Laughs At Story of Injury

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP.)—John Ringling, chuckling, denies a report that he hasn't got a leg to stand on. The magnate of the "big top," recovering from an infection of the foot, issued a statement from his Coney Island hotel suite, contradicting a report that his legs had been amputated. He said:

"I just came in from the Boardwalk and I wasn't walking on my hands, either."

Barr Target For Coyne Attack

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, July 13.—Representatives James Wettach, Thomas Neely and George H. Soffel today were appointed by Speaker C. Jay Goodnough as the House members of a joint legislative committee of five to investigate the costs of government in Allegheny County.

President Pro Tem James Boyd, of the Senate, will announce the Senate members late this afternoon. One is certain to be Senator James J. Coyne, author of the resolution creating the committee and bitter political foe of County Commissioners C. M. Barr and William D. Mansfield.

FRIENDS OF COYNE

The second Senate member will be friendly to Coyne, insuring the Oakland Senator control of the committee. Wettach has been a Coyne follower for some time, and in the last legislative primary the Coyne organization supported Neely for renomination, though he was beaten.

Though without an appropriation, it is assumed the committee will begin its work some time in August. It has authority to subpena persons, books and papers.

The attitude of the Oakland senator indicates that the inquiry is aimed primarily at Barr, who FORBES FIELD, July 13.—Eddie Brandt and Larry French staged a southpaw duel as the Braves and Pirates fought it out in the first game of a doubleheader here this afternoon.

Paul Waner was able to return to the Pirate lineup, but Lloyd Waner and Pie Traynor remain on the bench. Comorosky was in center field and Thevenow was at third base.

Worthington hit a home run for the Braves in the second inning. Brandt hit a double and scored a run as Boston crashed through for three runs in the fourth.

The game in detail:

FIRST INNING

SECOND INNING

BOSTON—Worthington hit a home run into the right field stands. Schulmerich singled to left. Shires tried to sacrifice, but forced Schulmerich, Piet to Vaughan. Akers fouled to Suhr. Shires stole second and when nobody covered second, Shires went to third. Piet was charged with an error under the rule, and Grace's string of errorless games was kept

HINT BRIBERY IN POISON PROBE

Mate of Beaten Woman Offered $1,000, She Tells Detectives

Joseph Chalfa was taken to county detective headquarters this afternoon for questioning on a reputed bribery attempt phase of the so-called Munhall death plot to collect insurance. Chalfa's wife, Stella, this morning told detectives, they reported, her husband had been offered $1,000 to induce her not to testify against her cousin, Mrs. Mary Chalfa, and Mrs. Grizella Young, alleged to have beaten her with a blackjack in a Mifflin Township grove June 27. The two are charged with felonious assault and battery.

ARREST PROMISED

In event the story is confirmed by Chalfa, the detectives indicated they would arrest the woman reported to have made the offer in behalf of the defendants.

Meanwhile detectives were checking statements said to have been made by Mrs. Young in a four-hour questioning yesterday that Andrew Allas, 16, and Richard Dyva, an infant, had been given poison and later died.

According to Andrew Young, estranged husband of Mrs. Young, and Joseph Havrella, present when she was questioned, she related a story of "black magic," including the grinding up of spiders found under tombstones to make potions supposed to bring about illness and death. They said that Mrs. Young admitted informing others how to make such potions, but did not involve herself in administering any.

POLICY NOT PAID

The Allas lad, who was heavily insured, died last April, but no insurance money was collected, detectives said. The Dyva infant died in 1930.

Andrew's body was exhumed May 11 at the insurance company's request, but county chemists found no trace of poison. The coroner's physicians said an autopsy disclosed disorders of the heart and lungs.

FRUITLESS SEARCH

Removed from jail on a court order, Mrs. Young, after making her alleged statement to Murren, her alleged statement to Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren was taken to the scene of the attack on Stella Chalfa to assist detectives in the search for the blackjack. The search was in vain and Mrs. Young was recommitted to jail. The victim's purse, umbrella and white shoes were found.

The detectives were making a thorough check of those named in Mrs. Young's alleged statement, including the druggist from whom the poison was said to have been purchased, before making any charges. The poison was administered internally and by rubbing on the skin, Murren said Mrs. Young told him.

Capone Henchman Sentenced to Die

KALISZ, Poland, July 13.—(AP.)—Joseph Pacholek, said to have been a member of Scarface Al Capone's gang in Chicago, was sentenced to death here today upon his conviction on charges of murder and banditry.

He came back to Poland from Chicago several months ago. Two accomplices in the crimes of which he was convicted were sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor.

Congressman Turpin Collapses in Capitol

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP.)—Representative Turpin, of Luzerne County, Pa., was in the Naval Hospital here today, a casualty, physicians said, of the strenuous, long-drawn-out session of Congress. Yesterday as he was hurrying to answer a roll call in the House, Turpin collapsed in a corridor of the Capitol. His doctors said his condition was not serious.

MRS. STELLA CHALFA, 22, AT SCENE OF BLACKJACK ATTACK

Mrs. Chalfa, young Munhall woman, at the picnic grove where investigators found her shoes, purse, umbrella, bearing out her story of a beating by two women, one of whom, county detectives report, confesses the attack as a move to collect life insurance. Poisonings of two are under scrutiny. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

'DEAL' MADE BY BRITAIN, FRANCE

London Denies Blow At U. S.; Herriot Links Debt Plot

International News Service.

Great Britain and France today announced formation of a new alliance designed as the foundation of a Pan-European bloc pledged to speedy solution of economic, financial and disarmament problems.

Simultaneously, the British Foreign Office vigorously denied that the entente was in any way directed against the United States. The pact, it was said, was open to all European powers, large and small.

World-wide speculation over the "gentlemen's agreement" making the Lausanne treaty contingent upon American war debt revision continued as the British government delayed publication of the document for another 24 hours.

By LINTON WELLS

International News Service.

LONDON, July 13.—France and Great Britain have concluded a new entente.

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, made the announcement in the House of Commons this afternoon at the same time that Edouard Herriot, French prime minister, was disclosing the fact to a committee of the Chamber of Deputies in Paris.

The Franco-British agreement, reached at Lausanne during the reparations conference, is designed to become the foundation of a European bloc of powers.

Germany, Belgium and Italy, Sir John told Parliament, have been invited to subscribe to it.

WORLD WAR BLAME UP

Nevertheless, the foreign office made haste to declare that the new agreement was not directed against the United States.

The chief aim, it was stated, was to settle the financial and economic difficulties of Europe.

It was admitted that one of the first questions to be considered was revision of the Versailles Treaty with particular reference to the article placing blame for the World War solely upon Germany's shoulders.

Sir John's official announcement of the new alliance was made only a few hours after International News Service had obtained confirmation from reliable authorities in Paris that the pact was in preparation.

With this new Pan-European front lining up, publication of the bitterly discussed "gentlemen's agreement" making the Lausanne reporations treaty contingent upon

Mother's Plea Rouses Girl, Asleep Months

CHICAGO, July 13.—(INS.)—More potent than the skill of famous physicians and surgeons, more powerful than the rare serums and medicines, was a mother's plea today:

"Pat, open your eyes. Pat, smile for me."

And Patricia Maguire, 27, suffering from the longest case of the strange malady, sleeping sickness, on record, opened her eyes and parted her lips in a twisted, pathetic smile.

Miss Maguire was stricken with the disease six months ago and since that time specialists from throughout the country have endeavored to relieve her from the coma.

An ultra-violet ray treatment was prescribed today. The pretty Irish girl's case has aroused the interest of the medical fraternity and is being made the subject of numerous clinics here.

During the six months period of unconsciousness she has been fed through the nostrils. Physicians reported today that she had gained 20 pounds. They predict that she is on the road to recovery.

Prison Head's Removal Asked as Indignation Over 'Torture' Mounts

Loretto Boy's Death Held Result of Penal Cruelty

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 13.—(INS.)—A wave of resentment at Florida prison camp punishments swept this district today as District Attorney W. Lloyd Hibbs revealed details of the slaying of Harold Bradley, 22, shot down by Florida prison guards while attempting to escape a Martin County road camp.

Hibbs revealed that Richard J. Beamish, Secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, had advised him of the intention of Gov. Doyle E. Carleton, of Florida, to sift the killing to the bottom, despite a previous exoneration of the guards who shot the boy.

Young Bradley paid with his life for the attempted holdup of a Florida gasoline station. Motoring through Florida while awaiting matriculation at college, the boy ran out of funds.

He held up the station, was captured, convicted and sentenced to serve three years' imprisonment. He was sent to the Indian Road camp near Stewart, Martin County.

Too weak to stand the heartbreaking labor in the broiling sun, the boy was ordered into the "sweat box."

Freed after five days with little food, the boy made a dash for liberty. He was shot dead.

Deserted Father Kills 3 Children With Ax

LYKENS, Pa., July 13.—(AP.)—James Golden, justice of the peace, today revealed that Barney Godleski, had killed three of his four children with an ax last night.

Godleski was charged with murder and sent to the Dauphin County Jail.

The child who escaped is 10 years old.

Godleski is 31. Police said he had been drinking heavily and that his wife left him yesterday.

The Justice of the Peace said the killer had come home at midnight from a drinking bout in Williamstown. One by one, he carried the three sleeping children to the cellar and cut their heads off.

The bodies were found by Deputy Coroner George Wren, of Williamstown, shortly after noon.

Recovering after a night's sleep, the father described to Golden the order in which he took his children to their death in the cellar. The 8-year-old boy went first, he said. And the next two victims were 6-year-old Lillian and 4-year-old Alberta. His first-born, Helen, had escaped him and fled the house.

SENATE SPIKES PLOT TO SHIFT WAR COST TO U. S.

POLL ACCEPTED AS DOOMING SCHEME

Debt Slash Opposition Grows in Congress; Secrecy Scored

By FRASER EDWARDS
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—An aroused and suspicious Senate today had driven a spike in the Lausanne plot to shift the cost of the World War to the shoulders of the American taxpayers, on the heels of the Universal Service poll of Congress blasting hopes of European war debtors for cancellation.

The poll, which created widespread comment on Capitol Hill, was accepted not only as the final answer of Congress to European cancellation propaganda, but to any attempt to scale down the debts on the same basis as the German reparations agreement.

Nine additional anti-cancellationist replies from absent members of the House received yesterday brought the total to 268. One congressman — Englebright (Rep.), of California—who was noncommittal—announced he was "emphatically against cancellation of the debts."

ERROR CORRECTED

The Senate poll stood 80 against cancellation, instead of 79 against and 1 for, when a check of the telegram from Senator Elmer Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma, revealed the message had been garbled in transmission.

An angry outburst by Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep.), of California, against the alleged agreement of American representatives to the Lausanne settlement drew a denial from Senator Borah, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, that the United States has any part in the agreement, on authority of Secretary of State Stimson.

The Californian bitterly denounced the administration's secret diplomacy in connection with the debts and warned that the Hoover moratorium had resulted in "every nation expecting ultimate cancellation." He said that revision was merely another word for cancellation.

Action on the resolution by Senator McKellar (Dem.), of Tennessee, calling upon President Hoover for detailed information regarding the part, if any, played by the United States in the Lausanne agreement was blocked by Senator Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania.

STORIES CONFLICT

After quoting Stimson's denial that America was a party to the negotiations, Johnson said:

"I accept what the Secretary of State says, but I am troubled when responsible British statesmen say something wholly at variance with what he says."

Johnson read cable dispatches of the remarks made in the House of Commons by Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain that:

"Reassuring talks had been held between British and United States representatives during the Lausanne conference."

The Californian then assailed the Hoover moratorium, which first recognized the relationship between reparations and debts and declared it "is going to plague us in the days to come."

When Senator King (Dem.), of Utah, asked if there had been "any intimation" by the State Department that Congress would be asked to grant another moratorium, Johnson replied:

"I do not think anything will be said about it today or tomorrow, but when Congress meets next December we will hear so much about it that it will din into our ears with a crashing symphony that will be utterly irresistible."

Borah said he called on Secretary Stimson and was permitted to state:

"That the Secretary stated to me explicitly that there had never been any conversation on the part of this government with the representatives of foreign governments touching the settlement at Lausanne; that we were not consulted and in no way advised with reference to what is called the gentlemen's agreement; that the position of the government had been, throughout the negotiations which had been going on between the governments in Europe, that our government regarded the debts and the question of reparations as separate propositions."

REED'S POSITION

In objecting to the consideration of the McKellar resolution, Reed said:

"Congress has passed an act declaring its fixed policy to be against cancellation or further reduction of the foreign debts. The President has signed that measure. Let us take it as a settled and accepted fact that the United States expects to be paid the balance of the debts that is left after the last debt settlement.

"We do no good service to the United States when we talk, as so many of our New York friends have talked, about the necessity of cancelling these debts."

war debt revision by the United States was withheld for another 24 hours.

PUBLICATION HELD UP

Although the British government had planned to make the text of the agreement public this afternoon "to avoid further disputes," the War Office announced that publication would be withheld until tomorrow owing to the fact that Italy had not yet indicated its willingness to reveal the document to the world.

Simultaneously with Sir John's statement, British officials in Whitehall declared that the Anglo-French alliance had no relation to American debts so far as Britain is concerned. A high official said:

"The Anglo-French understanding cannot in any sense be interpreted as the genesis of a united front against the United States. It affects Europe alone."

The foreign secretary, with solemn emphasis as he revealed the pact in the House, said:

"This is the expression of a new political spirit.

'It is not part of the Lausanne agreement and should not be confused with it. It is not a supplementary agreement and not a substantive agreement, but it is an invitation to adopt candid and open relations and discussions to which we hope all the leading European powers will respond.

"In the document which forms the final part of the Lausanne conference, the signatory powers declare their intention to make every effort to resolve the problems which exist at the present moment or which may arise subsequently, in the spirit which has inspired the Lausanne agreement.

"In that spirit, the British and French governments decided to give the lead in making an immediately mutual contribution toward that end."

French Declare Hoover Knew of Debt Project

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service.

PARIS, July 13. — Premier Edouard Herriot announced in the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon that a new entente cordiale had been concluded with England.

The influential Journal Des Debats, which has access to government sources, reaffirmed today that the Hoover administration was fully aware of the fact that reparation concessions made to Germany by France and Great Britain were conditional on reduction of the debts owed the United States by European powers. The paper said:

"Despite Washington denials we are in a position to know that the text of the 'gentlemen's agreement' was handed to the American representatives at Geneva."

The agreement or "alliance," as it was termed in some quarters, "is an accord of confidence," Herriot told the Chamber. He added:

"It creates a complete solidarity between France and England in solving the financial and economic problems of Europe."

Herriot's statement was made to members of the Chamber's Finance Committee, who gathered in the Chamber.

The agreement, he said, was "complementary to the gentlemen's agreement made at Lausanne" and its purpose was to give France and Great Britain leadership in collaboration for the reconstruction of Europe.

The Foreign Office announced that the text of the pact would be made public tonight.

SPEED ACTION ON DEBTS, SAY LAWMAKERS

House Members Weary Of Delay; Payment Demand Gains

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Belated replies of absent members of the House to the Universal Service poll of Congress on the question of war debt cancellation today brought vigorous protests against revision or further moratorium on the obligations.

Nine Congressmen were added to the 259 who yesterday opposed cancellation, bringing the total to 268. Representative Englebright (Rep.), of California, non-committal yesterday, asked to be put down as "emphatically against canceling the debts," reducing the non-committal total to 27.

IGOE TAKES STAND

"I am unalterably opposed to a further moratorium or deferment of the payment of the interest due the United States on all foreign debts.

"With our country in the midst of a terrible economic depression unequaled in its history, our farmers selling their produce far below cost of production, the nations of the earth who traded with us freely closing their doors in our face and penalizing our people by levying high tariffs upon our exports, millions of our people out of employment and hungry, our heroes of 1917 and 1918 sitting on the very threshold of the seat of the national government pleading for relief for themselves and families, the increasing of taxes on our already heavily burdened citizens who have partially survived the disaster, the reduction of salaries of federal employes and the closing of thousands of our banking institutions are sufficient reasons, in my humble opinion, action of this nature would be traitorous to the people of our great nation. Let us set our own house in order."

OPPOSES MORE DELAY

Representative W. W. Hastings (Dem.), of Oklahoma, wired:

"I am opposed to any reduction or cancellation of war debts and any further postponements."

A telegram from Representative J. J. Mansfield (Dem.), of Texas, said:

"I am very much opposed to cancellation of our war debts."

Representative Ewin L. Davis (Dem.), of Tennessee, wired:

"I am unqualifiedly opposed to cancellation of war debts, either in whole or in part."

Representative F. B. Swank (Dem.), of Oklahoma, said:

DOMESTIC CANCELLATION

Representative Tom D. McKeown (Dem.), of Oklahoma, telegraphed:

"Do not favor cancellation of war debts. A domestic cancellation will take place unless some relief is forthcoming to enable Americans to pay their debts."

Representative Weeks (Rep.), of Vermont:

Representative S. D. McReynolds (Dem.), of Tennessee:

"I am absolutely opposed to the cancellatiin or modification of all war debts. I voted against the foreign debt settlement at the time, believing that we were not getting sufficient funds, and shall use every power I possess to prevent any further reductions."

AINEY MEETINGS WITH MITTEN CHARGED

Senate Opens Probe Of Public Service Body Head

HARRISBURG, July 13.—(AP.)—The Senate committee investigating the Chapman charges of misconduct in office against Public Service Commission Chairman W. D. B. Ainey today questioned three witnesses.

The witnesses are Frank E. Rummel, Harrisburg, former chauffeur for Ainey, who was discharged by Mr. Ainey several years ago; Ikeda, Japanese houseman, formerly employed by the late Thomas E. Mitten, and A. A. Chapman, Philadelphia, Ainey's accuser.

Chapman detailed for the committee the circumstances of a number of conferences which he alleged were held by Chairman Ainey and Mitten in various places.

TELLS OF CONFERENCE

Attorney General William A. Schnader told the committee of a conference between him and Rummel in his office last week, in which Rummel voluntarily told Schnader a number of matters tending to corroborate Chapman's accusation against Ainey.

Schnader said that Rummel told him he frequently saw Mitten hand brown paper packages to Ainey at meetings in Philadelphia and New York; that Ainey's safe-deposit box was in the Union Trust Company, Harrisburg; that Ainey had a brokerage account with Parrish & Co., and that Ainey is president of the Selinsgrove bank.

HEAD OF BANK

Today Rummel denied that he told Schnader some of these matters and admitted that he told him other things. He admitted telling him that Ainey is president of the Selinsgrove Bank and that his safe deposit box is in the Union Trust Company, Harrisburg.

Rummel denied that he told Schnader he ever saw Ainey at Mitten's home in Roxborough but he admitted seeing Coleman Joyce, former counsel for P. R. T. and Mitten Management and former Public Service Commission official and A. B. Millar, former employe of P. R. T. and former Public Service Commission employe, with Ainey in different hotels in Philadelphia. He denied that he told Schnader that he ever saw Mitten hand brown paper packages to Ainey.

LONG INVOLVED BY GARSAUD

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(INS.)—Charges and counter-charges regarding a $12,000,000 insurance contract awarded by the New Orleans Dock Board several years ago were made today by Senator Long (Dem.), of Louisiana, and Marcel Garsaud, a member of the Federal Power Commission.

Long is opposing Garsaud's confirmation to serve another term as power commissioner.

Garsaud declared that Seymour Weiss and Mike Moss, both of New Orleans, came to him stating they represented Gov. Long and requested that a $12,000,000 dock insurance contract be awarded to the Union Indemnity Company, a New Orleans firm. Long exclaimed:

"That is absolutely false! This witness held up New Orleans dock insurance rates so high that they were driving shipping away from the port."

The hearing adjourned with the dispute still in progress.

Garsaud appeared before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee to defend his record against charges made by Charles A. Russell, former power commission solicitor, who was dismissed several months ago.

6-Cent 'Ceremony' To Notify Garner Of Nominaton

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP.)—Speaker Garner has decided on the most economical method possible to receive the formal notification of his nomination for the vice presidency.

It will cost two 3-cent postage stamps and will take place within a few days.

Senator Barkley, the temporary chairman of the Democratic national convention, will notify the Texan by letter. Garner will reply in kind and the letter will be made public.

There will be no ceremony.

PRISON HEAD'S REMOVAL ASKED

moval. The grand jury, through its foreman, Al F. Gorman, Jacksonville business man, will communicate its demand to Agriculture Commissioner Nathan Mayo, who has jurisdiction over all the state's prisons. Mayo has the power to remove Baker.

BLAMED FOR TORTURE

Baker was held responsible for the conditions at the Sunbeam camp, where Maillefert met his death in a sweat box, strangled by a chain that dangled him from the roof of the torture chamber. The boy had been trussed up by Guard Capt. George W. Courson and Guard Soloman M. Higginbotham after a futile attempt to escape from the prison camp. The two guards were indicted for first degree murder and released under $5,000 bail each, pending trial in September.

The grand jury meanwhile resumed its inquiry into conditions at the Sunbeam camp. It suspended its sessions yesterday when two guards, Gordon Denmark and R. S. Simms, could not be found. Both men were reported missing from the vicinity of the camp since the night Maillefert died.

Capt. Courson indignantly denied the men were missing. He told International News Service that state authorities had transferred Denmark, who was actually employed in the State Highway Division, although his work consisted largely in guarding prisoners. Courson said he had "fired" Simms the night of Maillefert's death, but would not give the reason for his action.

BRUTALITY CHARGED

Reports were prevalent that the grand jury would investigate rumors that other prisoners, aside from Maillefert, were mistreated in the Sunbeam Camp. It already has shown that Courson beat Maillefert with a rubber hose a few weeks before his death. This assault took place when the boy made a previous effort to escape. He had sawed off his leg shackles with a hacksaw obtained from another prisoner, but was caught before he got beyond the camp limits. The grand jury referred to this attack in its report indicting Courson and Higginbotham.

There was some mystery here about the status of Capt. Courson. State authorities said he had been suspended, pending his trial. He told International News Service he would return to work in a day or so. He said:

"I'm just taking a rest. I can go back to work today. Of course, the prison camp is closed, but I'll have other work to do."

Search Continued For Missing Baby

MINNEAPOLIS, July 13.—(AP.)—National Guardsmen by plane and afoot and civilians continued the search for the missing Leslie Delano, of Columbia Heights, today, the sixth day since he disappeared.

Under orders of Gov. Olson, the National Guard company of 100 men and five officers searched in swamps, brush and along highways in the vicinity of the home of the 20-month-old boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Delano.

Barons Go on Trial As Gambling Cheats

VIENNA, July 13. — (INS.) — Baron Otto Guttman and Baron Henry Menasse, Viennese aristocrats, were on trial today for cheating at baccarat and chemin de fer in two of the capital's most exclusive clubs.

They were arrested several months ago, at which time Dr. Herman Loewy and his wife committed suicide after being questioned by police concerning the affair.

HOUSE BLOCKS ECONOMY BILL DELAY

Votes Down Rural Bloc Proposal to Prevent Quick Passage

BULLETIN.

HARRISBURG, July 13.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot will address the House late this afternoon. The chief executive sent to the House a communication expressing a desire to appear before the members.

HARRISBURG, July 13.—(AP.)—Representatives bent on governmental economy today swept aside obstacles in their path toward speedy action on measures designed to trim state expenditures to the bone.

The economy bloc has set for late this afternoon consideration of the $23,000,000 program of expense trimming the Appropriations Committee reported at the end of last night's long session.

Bewildered by the long and complicated accompjanying report the committee gave them this morning, the Wade-Sheffer rural bloc today asked a public hearing on the bill and postponement of consideration.

WANTS CUTS STUDIED

They agreed cuts should be made, but they also wanted to know whether the department heads felt the cuts were the best that could be devised.

After a parliamentary scrap, however, the Talbot-Turner economy bloc defeated the attempt to delay consideration. The vote was 126 to 52.

While the rural legislators and the economy group were at odds on the economy program, the Appropriations Committee reported out bills which would restore appropriations abated by enactment of the Talbot bill in the last special session of the Legislature.

BONDS VOTED

The House then turned to its calendar. It passed and sent to the Senate the Bidelspacher resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to permit $125,000,000 in state bond issues. Of the total, $50,000,000 would go to municipalities for repayment of loans for unemployment relief; $50,000,000 for highway construction and $25,000,000 for emergency state expenses in 1933-35. The amendment was part of the "harmony" (Pinchot - organization) unemployment relief program.

Meanwhile the Senate, in a 10-minute session, passed and sent to the House the McClure resolution proposing a $25,000,000 bond issue for state expenses in 1933-35. The upper body then adjourned to reconvene late today.

HOOVER-CURTIS INDORSEMENT BY DRYS SEEN

Leader Relates Views On Eve of Strategy Board Meeting

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP.)—On the eve of the meeting here of the National Prohibition Board of Strategy, it was said today by sources within the board that sentiment exists among its members for a declaration in favor of the Hoover-Curtis ticket.

Whether such a stand will be taken remains to be decided, however.

A five-point program for strategy by the dry organizations in the forthcoming campaign has been proposed, and will be gone over in the forthcoming sessions.

The program follows:

1—To consistently seek "to prevent the submission to the states of repeal or modification" of the Eighteenth Amendment.

2—To do all possible, in case of submission, "to meet it in state legislatures," where, the program declares, the issue should be raised, "whether referred by Congress to legislatures or to conventions."

3—To oppose submission to conventions.

4—To work for "dependably 'dry'" United States senators and representatives and state legislators.

5—To rally prohibition friends everywhere to securing accurate data on candidates, their "attitude, dependability, etc.," with a view toward intelligent, militant action.

The program, signed by Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, chairman, and Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, secretary of the strategy board, has brought many responses.

Some have replied insisting that dry forces should unite in a "third" party.

GLASS OFFERS DRY REPEALER

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP.)—Senator Glass (Dem.), of Virginia, in the Senate today proposed a new amendment to the Constitution to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment, but to prohibit sale of liquor in saloons or transportation into any states where it was unlawful.

Long a supporter of the present amendment, the Virginian sought immediate consideration for his proposed substitute.

This was blocked, however, Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, objecting.

Weather Conditions.

The skies are clear over much the greater portion of the country this morning as a result of the large areas covered by high barometric pressure. There is some cloudiness over Ontario, due to the low pressure over that section, and in the Far West, where low pressure is dominating the weather. Light showers during the last 24 hours were limited to these sections. Temperature changes were slight, but most towards rising. There were no high maximum temperatures yesterday except in the Southwest, and in some localities in the plains states and the Gulf states, where 98 degrees was reached.

NURSE OF LINDY BABY TO SAIL

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(Universal.)—Betty Gow, nurse of the Lindbergh baby before it was abducted and slain, is going back to Scotland on a visit, it was revealed at the Labor Department today.

She applied yesterday for a reentry permit, and Secretary of Labor Doak issued orders that it be granted.

When the application reached the department it was called to Doak's attention instead of being handled through routine channels.

It was reported some time ago that none of the Lindbergh servants would be allowed to leave the country so long as the murder mystery was unsolved and there was a chance that New Jersey authorities might still wish to question them.

It is understood the New Jersey officials notified the Labor Department that they had no further desire to detain the servants in the country.

REVISED RELIEF BILL UP

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(INS.)—The $2,122,000,000 relief bill, revised to meet President Hoover's demands, was called up in the House today with leaders promising passage in record time.

The measure then will go to the Senate and an effort will be made to reach an agreement so that the bill can reach the White House tonight.

President Hoover had objected to the Glass amendment permitting Federal Reserve banks to loan to private corporations under restrictions, and wants a provision for establishment of agricultural credit banks modified so private sources would contribute one-half of the $3,000,000 capital for each bank.

Sister of Reynolds' Guest Seeks Divorce

RENO, Nev., July 13.—(INS.)—Mrs. Ella Hill Hogan, member of a prominent southern family, revealed today that she will file suit for divorce tomorrow against Kenneth P. Hogan, whom she married June 5, 1925, in North Carolina. Non-support will be the charge.

Mrs. Hogan is the sister of C. G. Hill, in whose honor Smith Reynolds, heir to the Reynolds tobacco millions, gave a party at Winston-Salem the night he met his death.

Answer Fire Call, Find Still Instead

An alarm brought firemen hurrying to Walter Chapple's home at 2610 Quarry street, but instead of flames they say they found a still and moonshine, police testified in South Side Police Court today. Chapple was fined $50.

Ann Harding's Ex-Mate Vague on Engagement

HOLLYWOOD, July 13.—(AP)—On the eve of his scheduled departure for England, Harry Bannister, former husband of Ann Harding, was a bit indefinite in making his position clear in Hollywood's latest reported love match—his supposed engagement to Miss Nanci Lyon, 18-year-old daughter of a Los Angeles attorney. He said:

"Miss Lyon is a splendid girl and certainly we are good friends."

Miss Lyon offered the following comment:

"Yes, we are very good friends and I cannot truthfully deny that we are engaged."

Once inside the home of her sister, Mrs. Reynolds went into seclusion.

A police guard may be placed around the home to preserve order if necessary. Scores of curious people tramped around the home today and ogled the premises in hopes of spying Mrs. Reynolds.

FOREGOES STAGE

Mrs. Reynolds will forswear the stage and devote herself to her expected child.

She was quoted by her father as saying:

"I feel that I don't ever want to see New York again. Certainly, I'll never go back to the stage. How could I after this?"

She added, according to Holman:

"I'll never, never go back to Winston-Salem again. If I ever go at all, it will be solely to place flowers on Smith's grave."

DEATH QUIZ PUSHED

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 13.—(AP.)—Investigation of the tragic death of Smith Reynolds today centered about certain portions of the inquest testimony and the finding of an insert in the Reynolds family Bible, which said:

"Zachary Smith Reynolds, born November 5, 1911. Died shortly thereafter of old age."

An effort to determine if it was the handwriting of young Smith or someone else was being made.

Authorities were also seeking something definite from Ab Walker, Reynolds' lifetime friend, despite his claim that he was telling all of the circumstances of the killing, and not, as he was quoted as having said before the inquest, maintaining the attitude that "there's a mystery about this case, but I'll go to my grave before I'll tell all I know."

REYNOLDA DESERTED

Meantime Reynolda, which recently echoed to gay laughter, to youth toasting youth in the corn whisky of the Carolinan hills, to the sound of a pistol shot and to the scream of a woman, was deserted after a vivid, tragic week.

Walker secluded himself immediately after the verdict Monday night. Libby Holman left yesterday with her parents for her home in Cincinnati.

Blanche Yurka, New York actress and friend of the young widow's halcyon days as a Broadway torch singer, was gone, after playing a leading role in the official investigation of the manner of Reynolds' death. With her went C. Raymond Kramer, of Flushing, L. I., who a month ago came to Reynolda to coach young Reynolds, who had neglected his education in favor of aviation and the role of playboy in his brief 20 years, the last three of which saw him twice married and once a father.

Mrs. Charles Babcock and Mrs. Henry Walker Bagley, of New York, sisters of Smith, left separately, and did not accompany the family of Alfred Holman, Cincinnati attorney, as it escorted its youngest member, Libby, to the departing train.

The same unusual peace which settled over Reynolda was not in evidence in the office of officials who have sought to establish definitely the manner and notice of the youth's death.

CASE NOT CLOSED

Sheriff Transou Scott said the case was by no means closed by the verdict of a Coroner's jury.

Smith Reynolds was at first believed, on evidence given by Walker, to have killed himself, and his death was pronounced a suicide by the Coroner. But Sheriff Scott could find no suicide motive and therefore was not satisfied, and the inquest was ordered.

With conflicting testimony, the Coroner's jury left the case open for action by the solicitor or the grand jury, as they might see fit. The grand jury was in session yesterday and today, but had not taken up the case, so far as could be learned.

Ab Walker could not be definitely located today. During the inquest he was asked if a pair of slippers and a woman's bathrobe found in his room at the Reynolds' home after the tragedy were not the property of Mrs. Reynolds.

LIBBY'S ARTICLES

Walker readily admitted the articles belonged to Libby. Asked to explain how they got into his room, he replied he had no idea unless she had taken them off in there on an occasion a few minutes before the tragedy when, the witness said, the young husband and his wife went into the room for about 15 minutes.

After their visit to the room, Smith asked Walker, the latter said, if he had heard anything that had gone on in the room.

"I told him yes, but I had not," the witness told the jury. "I just wanted to keep him from telling me the story."

Testimony that Libby had said she expected to become a mother quickened speculation here as to the ultimate disposition of young Reynolds' share in the estate of his father, which had been estimated as worth approximately $100,000,000 in all.

Despite the fact that her mother, Mrs. Frank Brandon Smith, of Charlotte, had signed an agreement purporting to cancel her rights, Anne Cannon Reynolds, child of Smith's first marriage, was expected to assume her place as heir under the law upon reaching her majority.

Should Libby have a child within the next nine months, attorneys predicted here, it would share equally with Anne Cannon's baby, although, since Reynolds died before reaching the age when he would actually have been the possessor of his patrimony, Libby herself will not be in line for more than one half of his personal property, which has been valued at less than $150,000.

"This Investigation Is Not Closed Yet—"

TRANSOU SCOTT

Sheriff Scott, of Forsyth County, who at Winston-Salem, N. C., ignores the coroner's jury's finding, says the investigation of the Reynolds death will be pressed by his office until the mystery has been cleared up. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

The bereaved, prostrated Libby Holman, 26, widow of the gun-slain Zachary Smith Reynolds, 20, tobacco prince.

Gun Mystery Adds To Reynolds Puzzle

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 13.—(INS.)—One of the major points in the Reynolds investigation centers about the mystery within the mystery—the disappearance and then reappearance of the revolver used in the killing.

After young Smith Reynolds died in the hospital, officers searched the sun porch of the Reynolds home where he was shot. They searched it four times but could not discover the gun. On a later search—the fifth one—the gun was found in a conspicuous position on the floor near the door leading into the bedroom occupied by Reynolds and his bride.

Authorities estimated it was five hours before the .32 Mauser revolver from which the bullet was fired was found.

Previously, Ab Walker, Miss Blanche Yurka, actress friend of Mrs. Reynolds, and Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds had been questioned concerning the gun.

The two house guests and the wife were the ones who took the body to the hospital.

Fete Will Recall Indian Burning of Hannastown

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 13.—Several hundred persons are expected to attend the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the burning of Hannastown by the Indians at the historic village site tonight.

An historical program will include reading of the court minutes of July 9, 1782. Hannastown, burned by Indians and its inhabitants massacred July 13, 1782, was the site of the first court house west of the Allegheny Mountains.

Woman Writer Sued For Divorce in Reno

RENO, Nev., July 12.—(AP.)—Pearl Adell Chase, internationally-known lecturer and author, of Peiping, China, was sued for divorce here yesterday by Lewis N. Chase. The divorce was asked for on the grounds of cruelty and five years of separation.

Mrs. Chase is the author of "A Vagabond Voyage Through Brittany."

Bank Wall Pierced, Robbers Get $60,000

FAUNSDALE, Ala., July 13.—(AP.)—Chiseling out a section of a 30-inch brick wall, robbers early today gained entrance to the vault of the Bank of Faunsdale and looted it of cash, estimated by bank officials at $60,000 to $75,000.

SEEK TO RESCUE 1,000 IN FLOOD

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 13.—(AP.)—Relief organizations pushed desperately itno the mud-covered valleys of the Paint and Armstrong creeks today in efforts to save the lives of more than 1,000 persons left without shelter, food or pure drinking water by Monday's flood.

Eighteen were dead in the valleys, while damage has been estimated by relief workers at upwards of $2,500,000.

Typhoid fever threatens almost the entire flood area, with wells partially filled with mud and creeks in even worse condition. Red Cross workers and state troopers are pushing into the valleys slowly, treating wells, distributing food and clothing and inoculating against typhoid.

Children whimpered in their mothers' arms during the day and night as chill winds swept over the soggy country. Babies were born in a Standard home and another in Burwell, in the heart of the flood area, as waters churned at foundations of the homes. Both houses escaped damage.

BEAUTY FACING JAIL OVER GUN

LONDON, July 13.—(INS.)—Scotland Yard is taking steps to prosecute Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney, wife of an American singer who was recently acquitted of the murder of her lover, for illegal possession of a revolver, it was announced in the House of Commons today.

The announcement was made by the home secretary in reply to a question by Lord Hugh Cecil.

AIMEE CHARITY WORKERS FACE RACKET QUIZ

Still Found in Home of Temple Solicitor; Hutton Kin Linked

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—(AP.)—Revelations of alleged petty graft and charity racketeering by members of Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton's Angelus Temple congregation prompted an investigation by the City Social Service Commission today.

The inquiry was started at the request of police after they had questioned Robert Edward Fisher, 70, who had in his possession a letter signed by Roy E. Watkins, an official of the Temple, authorizing him to solicit funds, food and materials for Temple activities.

SOLICITOR HAS STILL

Police said they found in a yard of Fisher's home a pressure cooker arranged in such fashion as to make a still. The police said Fisher admitted the cooker, obtained from Angelus Temple, had been used to make liquor.

Fisher told polisce, they said, he had sold food donated for the poor and converted some of the money to his own use. He alleged this was a common practice among solicitors for the temple.

The Los Angeles Examiner, in a copyrighted story, said that David L. Hutton, Sr., father-in-law of the evangelist, had received automobile tires from the temple's commissary that had been donated for the use of the poor.

"If anything like this has been going on, I want the fulest investigation and prosecution of the guilty persons."

AIDE SUSPENDED

So said Evangelist Hutton from her sick bed at Lake Elsinore. She announced the suspension of Watkins pending the completion of the investigation.

The evangelist's choir-singing husband, David L. Hutton, Jr., a few days ago was found guilty by a jury in a breach of promise suit brought by Myrtle Joan St. Pierre, pretty, twice-married, brunette nurse. Mrs. Hutton is convalescing from a serious illness, aggravated by a fall last Saturday night when informed of the jury's verdict stipulating Hutton pay the nurse $5,000 of the $200,000 she asked.

MA'S JOBLESS MATE RETURNS

HERMOSA BEACH, Cal., July 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. Minnie Kennedy-Hudson, mother of Evangelist Aimee McPherson Hutton, has failed once more in an effort to place her husband, Guy Hudson, on the road to steady work.

She took him to Santa Barbara last Friday, gave him $10, and put him on a north-bound train with advice to keep traveling in search of work, but he came back to her beach home here yesterday trudging dustily up the hill, looking tired and hungry.

Before she knew he was back tracking, Mrs. Hudson denied a legal separation or divorce was in sight. Last night she took him out to dinner.

JOBLESS PARTY WORK HELD UP

The efforts of the Jobless-Liberty party to employ 1,000 persons in Allegheny County to explain the party's principles have been halted pending the appeal by Attorney Austin Staley in behalf of two members arrested and fined in police court. Attorney Staley, national committeeman and aide to Father James R. Cox, party founder, after a conference with Assistant City Solicitor Ben L. Steinberg, declared the two men were accused of conducting an employment agency without a permit. He said no such agency was being operated; that his organization was employer, not an agency. Staley declared he had intended to pay the persons employed $2 a day.

Kearns Weds Daughter Of Kentucky Colonel

NEW YORK, July 13.—(INS.)—Jack Kearns, sleek fashionplate who managed Jack Dempsey, has married the daughter of a wealthy Kentucky colonel, it became known today.

He and Miss Lillian Kansler, 23, of Louisville, were married last night at the home of Mickey Walker, former middleweight champion, in Shrewsbury, N. J. Jack is Mickey's manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker attended the couple and the Rev. Henry Owens, of Red Bank, performed the ceremony in the room where Mickey and the former Clara Helmer, of Brooklyn, were married in February, 1931, with Kearns as best man.

With Mr. and Mrs. Walker, the newlyweds plan to sail shortly for Europe where Kearns is hopeful of arranging a bout between Mickey and Larry Gains, British heavyweight.

HILL SIGHTSEER CUT IN FIGHT

Charles Nickun, 26, of 63 Harvard street, one of a group from the West View district whose sight-seeking trip by auto through the Hill district early today terminated in a free-for-all battle, was in a serious condition in Mercy Hospital with stab wounds, physicians said.

A companion, Burton Wylie, 26, of 158 Highland avenue, was cut slightly on the head.

Others in the group, Henry Wolf, 23, of 343 Cornell avenue; Louis Dougherty, 22, of 101 Georgetown avenue, Charles Curran, 25, of 207 Bronx avenue, and Ray Steinlehuer, 25, Perrysville, escaped with minor hurts.

The young men said they were attacked when a cigaret tossed from their car accidentally struck one of a group of Negroes. The Negroes said the young men had made remarks to them.

Police said the fight started when the group exchanged verbal shots with James and Viola Hays, and William Wayne, Negroes, of Our way.

Participants, with the exception of Nickun, were ordered by Magistrate James O'Connor to be held pending the outcome of Nickun's injuries. The Negroes were held without bail, while the others were released on $1,000 each.

FUND TO ASSIST CULTURED POOR

Formed for the relief of needy persons of culture, the Mary B. Dalzell Memorial Fund applied for a charter in Common Pleas Court, in compliance with the provisions of the will of Harry M. Beer, of Crafton, who died April 7, 1930. He was a brother of Mrs. Dalzell. The fund was formed:

"For the purpose of rendering financial assistance to persons who are ill or otherwise unfortunate in order to relieve them from want, care and worry, preference to be given to persons of culture and not apt to seek or receive charity, and residents or former residents of Allegheny County."

The application was signed by Martha D. Trainer, P. D. Beatty, Genevieve L. Bell, T. A. Standish, Jr., and M. H. Ewing, the first three to be directors for the first year.

NAME OFFICERS OF NEW BANK

Officers of the new Homewood Bank at Pittsburgh, which is to replace the closed Homewood Peoples Bank, were announced today by James C. Chaplin, president of the Second District Realization Corporation. A charter has been received from Gov. Pinchot and the date for opening will be announced soon, he said.

Hugh G. Nevin is president of the new bank; Orel McKenzie, vice president; R. C. Kane, cashier, and Edward C. Fitzgerald, assistant cashier.

The board of directors includes Dick Briney, James A. Cyphers, Thomas E. Doyle, Edward H. Gerberding, William B. McFall, Jr., Orel McKenzie, Hugh G. Nevin and Frank R. Shaughnessy.

Brazilian Leader Moves on Rebels

The government denied that Olegario Maciel had been removed from the presidency of the state of Minaes Geraes, and also that the state had joined the revolt movement.

RAIDERS STRIP 'KEY' CLUB

An East Liberty "key" club, on the second and third floors at 318 South St. Clair street, was raided yesterday by prohibition agents, who reported seizing beer, gin and whisky, also stripping the rooms of expensive furnishings. Charles Uptgraph was arrested.

Among the property reported confiscated were a card index system containing the names of approximately 1,500 men and women; many hundred blank keys and a machine for cutting them. A 15-foot bar was taken away in trucks with the other seized property. Two women and a man in the rooms when the raiders entered, were allowed to leave.

The rear door of the club rooms was guarded by a huge German police dog, the agents said.

Willard to Attend Traffic Club Outing

Daniel Willard and C. W. Galloway, president and vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, are expected to attend the outing of the Pittsburgh Traffic Club tomorrow at the Pittsburgh Field Club. Among others expected are J. F. Deasy, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; I. Lamont Hughes, president of the Carnegie Steel Company, and Charles Beisterling, vice president of the United States Steel Corporation. About 150 persons are anticipated at the luncheon, golf matches and dinner.

CHILD RESCUED FROM POOL

The vigilance of Paul Whitehead, lifeguard at the Ralph Park swimming pool, Bellevue, saved Jean Campbell, 3, from drowning today, police reported.

Jean, daughter of Dr. James M. Campbell, chiropractor, of 315 Taylor avenue, Avalon, and her brother, Russell, 7, were walking along the edge of the pool when she slipped, falling into four feet of water.

Whitehead, at the other end of the pool, dashed to the scene and rescued the child, unconscious. She was resuscitated at Suburban General Hospital.

MINE STRIKERS PROTEST BAN

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., July 13.—A spray of machine gun bullets into the hills near Powhatan mine by National Guard officers this morning was the only activity in the martial law district of Eastern Ohio's mine strike field. Not a picket was allowed within a mile of any of the mines in Belmont County. Deputies riddled the hill overlooking a convoy of 60 autos bearing workers to the mine.

Protest over the proclamation limiting picketing to the mile limit is promised by United Mine Workers leaders at a convention to be held this afternoon at Bellaire.

—that Awful stocking RUN

SHE could easily prevent those embarrassing runs. Other girls do. They wash their stockings the Lux way. Lux keeps the live quality—the elasticity—in stockings, so they wear twice as long. The silk threads give, but do not break.

The LUX way to keep stockings new

Wash this 2-minute way:

1. One teaspoon of Lux for each pair.
2. Add lukewarm water to Lux, squeeze suds through stockings, rinse well.

ALLEN PREDICTS HOOVER VICTORY

Former Gov. Frank G. Allen, of Massachusetts, in Pittsburgh today, predicted that President Hoover would be re-elected President of the United States. He said:

"I think President Hoover will be the next President of the United States. Also I believe he will carry Massachusetts."

Concerning prohibition, the former Governor said:

"If the majority of the people want the prohibition amendment repealed, I am a good enough Republican to bow to the will of the majority."

Former Gov. Allen is in Pittsburgh to attend the marriage of Miss Catherine Grubbs, of North Euclid avenue, a cousin of Mrs. Allen's, to Frank Sterns Prescott, of Grafton, Mass.

WOLFORD HEADS STATE C. E.

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, July 13.—Installation of state officers at a mass meeting tonight will climax the fifteenth biennial state convention of the State Christian Endeavor Union here. Reuel B. Wolford, of Wilkinsburg, was named president of the state organization at an executive meeting late yesterday.

Two other Pittsburgh men were honored in the election. William C. McClintock and William S. Wise, both active in county Christian Endeavor, were elected to the board of directors. The Rev. Harold S. Laird was to have charge of the installation meeting tonight.

More than 2,500 young men and women from all parts of the state are in attendance.

Everyone in Sewickley was at the Edgeworth Club last night for the WCAE broadcast, given by a group of its studio entertainers, and the dance with the unemployed of Sewickley Valley faring notably well as beneficiaries.

Hundreds and hundreds of the smart set were there, from members of the very young school set to debutantes, the post-debs, young matrons and their elders. Mrs. Alexander Laughlin, of the Sewickley advisory council, giving a series of such benefits, was chairman.

Mrs. Laughlin was distinguished in a gown of green lace having a cape of the same material. Tall, vivacious Collie Jennings, one of the debutantes to be feted in the fall, wore a smart gown of white linen lace.

Elizabeth Craig chose a delicate shade of green crepe for her gown and for accent had a cluster of dark red roses at the shoulder. Two of the Doyle sisters were dancing, with Nancy choosing flowered chiffon and Virginia biscuit colored satin.

Petite Polly Shoyer was attractive in black lace. Rosamond Fitch in flowered chiffon over which she wore a red velvet wrap when she arrived; Katharine Collin in a red flowered dress with shoulder straps of diamente, and Laura Childs, a debutante, in cosmo pink crepe.

In Lace Gown

In the dancing throngs I had a glimpse of Mrs. James O. Flower, the former Virginia Goldsbury, in dark blue chiffon with a short bodice of cream lace. Harriet Ramsburg wore white lace, and Mrs. Ledlie Young, green flowered chiffon.

Representing the older set were Mrs. James B. Oliver in white satin, Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., in black lace, Mrs. George Phelps Rose in beige lace and Mrs. Frank Dravo in black lace.

* * *

Even though one might think the smart set is interested only in golf and tennis and summer resorts, there are groups here and there already anticipating the autumn season.

Planning Dance

One such group, the Dispensary Board of St. Margaret's Hospital, made up of young matrons and post-debutantes, is already planning for its annual Cinderella ball, always one of the red-letter nights of the social calendar.

The date will be Friday evening, November 25, with Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Jr., as general chairman, and the scene of the ball, at which the debutantes of the season always appear in a feature dance, will be the University Club again.

Former Gov. Allen Attends Grubbs Nuptials

With former Gov. Frank G. Allen, of Massachusetts, and Mrs. Allen, cousin of the bride, attending, Miss Catherine Grubbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Clyde Grubbs, of North Euclid avenue, and and Frank Stearns Prescott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Prescott, of Grafton, Mass., were married this morning at 10:45 in the Grubbs home by the Rev. Edwin S. Wallace.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a travelling suit of powder blue crepe with a hat to match, and had a corsage of mauve orchids and lilies of the valley. Cibotium ferns and tall standards of pink peonies formed the setting for the ceremony.

After the wedding there was a breakfast in the University Club for members of the two families. Summer flowers decorated the table. On Monday, Mr. Prescott and his bride will be at home in Boston.

Mrs. T. C. Wallace gave a luncheon yesterday in the Twentieth Century Club in honor of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Cober, of Elm street, Wilkinsburg, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Cober, to Ulton Grey Hodgin, of Greensboro, N. C., which was solemnized Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the Cober home by the Rev. Alvin A. Cober, of Jeannette. Mrs. James H. Price, of Somerset, aunt of the bride, played the wedding music.

Cober Wedding

The home was decorated with ferns, delphinium and madonna lilies. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of blue chiffon and lace with a pink Milan hat, and carried pink roses and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Miss Elizabeth Cober, was maid of honor, and wore pink chiffon with a blue Milan hat and carried an arm bouquet of garden flowers. James R. Cober was the best man.

After the reception there was a breakfast in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel for 30 guests.

After a wedding trip through Canada and New England, Mr. and Mrs. Hodgin will be at home in Warren, Pa. The bridegroom is a graduate of North Carolina State College, Raleigh, N. C., and is a member of Chi Tau and the Golden Key.

Wilkinsburg B. P. W. Club Observes Anniversary

The seventh anniversary of the Wilkinsburg Business and Professional Women's Clubs was observed last night at a dinner meeting in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel. Dr. Mildred Rogers, of New Castle, former state president and now state membership chairman, was the speaker and the program also included dances by little Dolores Langnese and soprano solos by Mrs. D. M. Ensell, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Topping.

Dr. Rogers reported the cruising convention which the Pennsylvania Federation held aboard the Tionesta and there was an impressive candle-lighting ceremony in which Miss Mildred Cowan, the first president; Miss Anne Ort (speaking for the second executive, Mrs. Helen Bates) and Mrs. Janet Snyder took part. The new officers, headed by Dr. Mary E. Coffin, were welcomed into office. Guests were present from the New Castle, Latrobe, Derry and McKeesport clubs.

Churchill, Butler In Washington Fete

LONDON, July 13. — (AP.) — Three hundred distinguished Britons and American residents of London gathered last night in honor of the George Washington bicentennial at a dinner of the pilgrim's society.

The Earl of Derby presided at the dinner, at which Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the exchequer, and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, New York, were the principal speakers. Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon was among the guests.

East Liberty Club Women Helping To Supervise Garden Work At Emergency Plots

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

A number of East Liberty club women are assisting Mrs. Rollins A. Haddock, Jr., president of the East Liberty Woman's Club, who has been appointed chairman of the thrift and welfare garden committee of the East Liberty Community Welfare Council. Miss Minerva Marshall, Miss Mabel Keppel and Mrs. A. J. Cupps are supervising the work at the McKay plot in Penn Township, beyond the Lincoln avenue car line. Mrs. Fred Westwood and Mrs. R. W. Warren are doing constructive work at the Herron Plot on Stanton avenue, with Miss Marshall, who is Mrs. Haddock's vice chairman, taking her place during her frequent absences at her summer home in Chautauqua.

Mrs. Harry Beacom, Mrs. V. K. Leslie, Mrs. Philip Beese and Mrs. J. F. Ashcom are co-operating at the Black and Aiken avenue gardens and the half dozen plots on the First Unitarian Church property. Ellsworth and Morewood avenue are under the direction of Miss Anne M. Smith and Miss Louise Smith. Mrs. Haddock terms the emergency garden work one of the most constructive club activities in which she has ever engaged.

'Holy Man' Refuses To End Talk 'Fast'

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—(AP.)—Shri Meher Baba, who came here recently heralded as the East Indian "holy man," and who supposedly has not uttered a word for seven years, will not deliver his "message to the world" tomorrow over a national broadcast from Hollywood.

Quentin Tod, the mystic's secretary, telegraphed from Santa Barbara, Cal., Baba had decided to postpone the word fast breaking until next February—because "conditions are not yet ripe."

FASHION CHOOSES TWIN DRESS PLAN

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 13.—Paris is going on the twin dress plan. Two dresses, made exactly alike, but of different materials or in different colors, are among the new suggestions for smartness given out by prominent French designers. Many French women are adopting the plan of having not only two, but many dresses made exactly alike.

* * *

THE PRINCESS DE ROHAN, on her recent departure for a tour of America, filled her trunks with clothes made on only two designs—both from Vera Borea. For daytime wear, she chose suits of silks and of woolen, made with slightly flared skirts and little bolero jackets. For evening, her dresses were made of bright yellows and pinks, in cottons and silk jerseys, but all cut on the same lines.

* * *

BRUYERE IS one of the designers who favors this system of choosing a becoming line and developing it in many materials. In her fashion shows she shows the same model several times, illustrating how it looks in plain colors, in prints, in wool or in cotton, and how different accessories change its general effect.

* * *

THE DRESS in the sketch is one she has chosen as being universally becoming. Its V-shaped lines, at the shoulders and hips, have a tendency toward the effect of slenderness. The bias-cut skirt keeps smooth lines while allowing for ample fullness.

* * *

WITHEROW NEW WELFARE HEAD

William P. Witherow today had accepted the chairmanship of the 1932 Welfare Fund campaign, November 9 to 23.

He replaces Joseph Dilworth, who headed campaigns during the last three years.

Mr. Witherow.

Witherow has been active in the affairs of the fund since its inception and is a member of the operating committee of the Allegheny County Emergency Association. He is also chairman of the Thrift Garden Committee. He said:

"Every force of community life must be mobilized to prevent hunger, to maintain standards of living, to preserve homes threatened with destruction, to safeguard health, to protect the welfare of growing children and to maintain the morale of the community."

Witherow said that the Welfare Fund will budget its operations more closely than ever before, and eliminate every service not actually vital at present.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP.)—Dr. Victor A. Aimone, medical officer in charge of Mt. Alto Hospital, diagnostic center of the Veterans' Administration, was shot to death today by a man who police said was a former patient.

Hospital attendants overpowered the man who did the shooting. He was not immediately identified, and refused to talk.

Dr. Aimone, 45, was a native of New York city. He served as an Army captain before joining the Public Health Service in 1920.

YORK, Pa., July 13.—(AP.)—Oscar Altland, superintendent of the County Home, near here, was seriously injured when he was attacked this morning by a Negro inmate wielding a knife. Altland's throat, ear and right side were slashed. George Heller, an employe at the home was wounded while assisting the superintendent in efforts to subdue the Negro, George Banks, 36, an epileptic.

TRIO ARRESTED AT SALE FREED

Three men arrested on charges of inciting to riot at a constable's sale at 410 and 412 Cabot way yesterday, were discharged by Magistrate J. J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court today. The men—Andrew Koten, 37, and Malvo Moroz, 42, both no home, and John Derkacz, 23, of 133 South Twelfth street, are alleged to have tried to carry furniture supposed to go under the hammer back into the house. A constable from the office of Justice of the Peace Ira H. Edmundson, Mt. Lebanon, was conducting the sale.

BRITISH DRAMA ON AIR -:- Terror of Mine Victims Depicted -:- NORMAN THOMAS TALKS

Mystery Star Makes Debut Tonight

Marking another step in the development of microphone dramas, the first of two English radio plays is presented over an NBC network including WCAE tonight at 8:30. The work, "Danger," was written especially for presentation over the air, and was broadcast originally by the British Broadcasting Corporation in England. The scene is laid in the bottom of a coal mine in Wales and the play deals with the mental reactions of two men and a girl, sight-seers, who are trapped a thousand feet below the surface. The lights suddenly go out, there are distant explosions and water starts to rise in the pit, providing a fast moving drama.

The second play, "The Poacher," which received second place in the recent British Drama League competition, but was chosen by the BBC as being the best suited for broadcasting purposes, will be presented over KDKA Friday night.

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, speaks on the subject, "A Socialist's View of the National Platform," over a Columbia chain, including WJAS tonight at 10:30. During the address he compares the platforms of the Republican, Democratic and Socialist parties from his point of view as a candidate.

A New York stage favorite makes his debut as a mystery singer in a new series of programs to be presented six times a week over WJAS tonight at 7:15. The feature, utilizing novel bits of verse to introduce each selection, is known as "The Songster."

* * *

Program Pointers

The adventures of Johnny Hart, the young hoofer of Big Time, following a development of a severe case of heart trouble over a beautiful young heiress, are depicted during the "Big Time" presentation on WCAE tonight at 8. The cast includes Mary McCoy, Woods Miller and Jerry and Jean Dawson. The musical portion of the program is played by an orchestra under the direction of Joseph Bonime.

Miss McCoy

Victor Herbert's "The Velvet Lady" is revived in miniature during the Melody Moments program with Josef Pasternack's orchestra and Oliver Smith, tenor, on KDKA at 8:30 tonight.

The Y. M. C. A. Dramatic Club presents another of a series of sketches based on the works of Booth Tarkington from the studios of WWSW at 10 o'clock.

The genial drawl and basso profundo tones of the Old Singing Master are imitated by Ward Wilson on KDKA at 7:15.

Countess Olga Albani, appearing as guest artist on WCAE at 9 with the Revelers and Victor Young's orchestra, sings "Poor Pierrot" from "The Cat and the Fiddle," and "Someone to Watch Over Me," a Gershwin tune from "Oh Kay."

Roy Truxell, Pittsburgh baritone, makes his bow before the KDKA microphone tonight at 8:15 with a program of semi-classical songs, including Cadman's "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water" and Huhn's "Invictus."

Fan Fare

While Bill Hay is on his vacation, the Amos 'n' Andy programs are being announced by Sen Kaney . . . Joan B. Lain is substituting for Hay on the Goldbergs' series . . . Erno Rapee, who is visiting his home city, Budapest, will return in time to conduct the Philadelphia Symphony on August 16, 17 and 18 during that organization's annual summer concerts . . . Gill and Demmling have prepared a book on astrology . . . It's called "Stars I Have Seen."

Mr. Kaney

WABC-CBS has moved to stop overpopularizing of popular music . . . The chain has decided that three hours must elapse before a melody can be repeated . . . which means that the same song can be used only six times during an 18-hour broadcasting day.

Phillips Lord's "Country Doctor" adds two nights to its weekly schedule after next week . . . Jack Benny's contract has been renewed for 13 weeks more.

Harold Stern, presenting his first anniversary program a week from tomorrow night, plans to conduct his orchestra via television. Stern will stand in the studios of CBS-W2XAB in New York and direct the music played by his orchestra in a hotel a mile away. Part of the program will be carried over a Columbia chain.

Sports and Politics WCAE Features

Returning as guest artist with the Trained Seals on WCAE tonight at 6:55, Herbert M. (Hub) Rinehart, Pittsburgh tennis star, offers a group of baritone solos, including Wagner's "To An Evening Star." The Waynesburg College Quartet, composed of Preston Barry, Henry McVicker, Malcolm Hayden and Jerry Nyhan, also is heard. Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, is master of ceremonies.

An analysis of the political activities of the state and nation by Mark Shields, political editor of the Sun-Telegraph, is heard on WCAE tonight at 6. Due to Mr. Shields' absence from the city his comments are read by Louis L. Kaufman.

An entertaining and instructive program for children is presented during the Sun-Telegraph Family broadcast on WCAE at 4:45 today.

The Lawson Sisters, popular harmony team, and Richard Koch, baritone, are featured with David Levin's orchestra and Pat Haley, master of ceremonies, on the Sun-Telegraph Nite Club of the Air tonight at 11.

News flashes by Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, are broadcast daily at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m., and 6:30 p. m.

NOSE-TO-NOSE DANCE FAVORED

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP)—The 4,000,000 will be dancing the "Boston 400" this fall, say teachers of the light fantastic, if they follow the trend at Cambridge, New Haven and Princeton.

Miss Lucille Stoddard, chairman of the Dancing Teachers' Congress now in session, explained that the "Boston 400" is a conservative fox trot, danced in open fashion and interspersed with two walking steps every four to six beats. It has already found popularity in college ballrooms.

Partners' noses should be pressed together. The man's hand should be draped over the nape of the girl's neck. The girl's body should be swung away from her partner like a scarf in a stiff wind. If the partners want to talk they just take a walk in slow tempo.

Escaped Convict Seeks Freedom

NEW YORK, July 13.—(INS.)—A habeas corpus hearing for William H. Collins, arrested here as a fugitive from justice in California, was scheduled before Supreme Court Justice Dore tomorrow.

Counsel for Collins produced a letter from the warden of St. Quentin prison, from which Collins escaped in 1913, stating that California authorities did not seek further detention of Collins.

Dates for Voters To Qualify for November Polls

Here are the dates on which residents of Allegheny County may qualify to vote for President and other offices at the November election:

September 7—Last day to be assessed for payment of poll taxes, a tax receipt being necessary to register.

September 8—First registration day in second and third class cities, including Pittsburgh, McKeesport, Duquesne and Clairton.

September 20—Second registration day.

October 8—Third and last registration day, also last day to pay poll taxes.

September 6 and 7—Register assessors will sit at polling places in boroughs and townships to list those who may have been omitted in house-to-house canvass.

THE OIL THAT

NO "LIGHT ENDS"
"Light ends" evaporate. • Cause excessive oil consumption. • Have low viscosity. • Have low lubricating value under heat.

NO "HEAVY ENDS"
"Heavy ends" contain residual impurities. • Form tar-like deposit on exhaust valve stem. • Form carbon deposit in combustion chamber, on underside of piston head and behind the piston rings. • Cause formation of crankcase sludge.

ATLANTIC
Paraffine Base
MOTOR OIL
The Heart of the Crude

DO YOU want to eliminate unnecessary repair bills? Save many dollars on operating costs? Know the full power your engine is capable of developing? Enjoy smoother, cooler performance, even on the hottest days of summer?

Then change to the new ATLANTIC MOTOR OIL—the heart of the crude! This great new oil gives better protection than any product heretofore available, because it has none of the harmful elements of "light" and "heavy ends."

"Light ends" are the oils distilled at low temperatures, in the refining of crude oil. "Heart oils" are those in the middle of the distillation range. "Heavy ends" are the residues remaining. The "heart oils" have the highest lubricating value.

In customary refining practice, the "light ends" and "heavy ends" are blended. But tests prove that nearly all lubricating troubles come from these "light" and "heavy ends."

ATLANTIC therefore rejects them, using only the "heart oils." This means that the yield from a given amount of crude is just about one-half of that usually obtained. But it also means an oil that definitely cuts maintenance bills—an oil that will last longer, cost you less, and do a better lubricating job than any product you have ever been able to buy before!

Best of all, the new ATLANTIC MOTOR OIL sells at no extra cost. It is a fitting companion to ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH, the great super-fuel that sells at regular-gas price.

Fill your crankcase today with the heart of the crude—the oil that cuts maintenance bills.

HOSTESS SEEKS COURT AID

Mrs. Mary Conway, 40, Cincinnati instructor of social hostesses, was prepared to appear in Common Pleas Court tomorrow to win her release from police custody. She was arrested after complaints reached the Better Business Bureau in connection with her sale of courses in Pittsburgh.

For four days Mrs. Conway, under police custody, has been in Allegheny General Hospital recovering from a dose of sleeping powders.

From Cincinnati came word that she had opened her school there after she had attended a similar school in Miami, Fla.

Earl Goes Back To Cowboy Life With Title

CALGARY, Alta., July 13.—(AP.)—The Earl of Egmont by title, but to his fellow cowboys Freddie Perceval, was back in the saddle here today, leading the life he loved before he left his ranch home with his father to claim title and fortune in England.

His father, from whom he inherited the ancient British earldom, died recently in England.

Hume, Noted Author Of Mysteries, Dies

LONDON, July 13.—(AP.)—Thundersley Fergus Hume, noted detective story writer, died today of a heart attack.

He wrote 130 novels in his career. The "Mystery of the Hansom Cab" was one of the best sellers among detective fiction of all time, but when he wrote it he was unknown and he sold the copyright for about $250. He did not benefit from its tremendous sale.

RODEO TO HELP NEEDY FUND

From advance reports it looks as though the Father Cox rodeo, circus and merchandise show scheduled for a week afternoons and evenings at Exposition Park beginning Monday night, will go a long way in reducing the heavy debt the "father of the jobless" has personally assumed to carry on his welfare activities among the unemployed and needy of Pittsburgh.

The rodeo will be held under canvas. The cowboys and cowgirls, bronco busters, bulldoggers, trick and fancy riders, lariat experts, wild steers, mustangs and ponies are already on the lot. During Father Cox's absence abroad, several businessmen have launched the rodeo to get him out of debt. It is reported that the advance sale of tickets is already quite large. One of the tents will house a trade exposition.

In the meantime Father Cox is obtaining considerable cash for his relief work through the Father Cox-Sun-Telegraph Home Delivery Drive. You'll find the coupon on this page. If you subscribe to the Sun-Telegraph on this coupon Father Cox gets a liberal commission.

Shrine Delegates To Fly to Meeting

Harry E. McLain, Andrew Lysle and Theodore Motheral, representatives of Syria Temple to the Imperial Council of the Mystic Shrine, will fly to the convention, which opens in San Francisco July 25. They will leave Bettis Field July 21. Other representatives, Edward M. West, Howard Mortin and J. Milton Ryall will make the trip by rail. Illustrious Potentate Karl R. Hammers will head a party leaving July 17.

NORWAY TAKES DANISH AREA

OSLO, Norway, July 13.—(AP.)—The Norwegian government today had decided to occupy another thin strip of Greenland, the whole of whose area is under Danish sovereignty, alleging the step is necessary to protect the rights of Norwegian residents there.

Almost exactly a year ago Norway occupied a larger piece of the eastern coastline. Denmark had claimed sovereignty over this area for years and the question was taken to The Hague Court for arbitration.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, July 13.—(AP.)—Premier Theodore Stauning today characterized Norway's announced intention to occupy a second strip of the Eastern Greenland coast as "an encroachment similar to that of 1931."

BARR TARGET OF ATTACK

made a vain effort to defeat Coyne for re-election, supporting E. J. Wuerthle in the primary in the Forty-third Senatorial district.

Coyne is especially interested in an inquiry into the elections bureau, the head of which, John W. Vickerman, is a Barr appointee.

He is also interested in the tax board, which numbers among its membership Barr's brother, Ralph Barr, and is headed by George E. Meyers, a Mansfield appointee friendly to Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, another Allegheny County official Coyne does not approve politically. Another member of the tax board is Harry C. Workmaster, close in the confidence of Barr and chairman of the Independent campaign in the last general election in the county.

It is being inferred here that Coyne acted in reprisal against Mansfield for the latter's effort to do away with the fees of the delinquent tax office, in the hands of friends of the Kline-Coyne organization.

MACKRELL FACES QUIZ

As a counter-proposal, Coyne is expected to go into the fees of the Register of Wills' office, taking a side fling at Mackrell, though the latter in recent weeks has had no cause to rejoice at any gratuities he or his friends have received from the County Commissioners.

Under the resolution, Coyne can call Barr to the stand, and subject him to any questions he desires.

Coyne has carefully laid the groundwork for a political fishing expedition which should provide plenty of material for political discussion in Allegheny County between now and next January. It is doubtful if anything more than a perfunctory inquiry will be made into the costs of the offices of the District Attorney, the County Controller and other offices outside the jurisdiction of the County Commissioners.

Most of the increased costs in these departments has been brought about by legislative acts, increasing salaries, and expanding personnel, introduced and passed through the influence of legislators friendly to Coyne.

100,000 Orangemen Parade in Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 13.—(AP.)—A host of 100,000 Orangemen from Great Britain, Canada and other parts of the British Empire, paraded here yesterday in celebration of the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne and proclaimed their loyalty to the King, their belief in the British Empire and their faith in the Protestant church.

It was one of the greatest Orange gatherings in history. Northern Ireland Orangemen passed a resolution reiterating their determination to resist any attempt to force them into the Free State by a union of both parts of Ireland.

Will Rogers, Teacher, Stays in Vote Race

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 13.—(AP.)—Will Rogers, the rural Oklahoma school teacher who surprised the state by leading the primary race for the Democratic nomination as Congressman-at-large, won his fight today for a place on the run-off ballot July 26.

The Supreme Court refused to take jurisdiction in the suit of ex-Congressman E. B. Howard to disqualify Rogers. Howard contended that the teacher changed his name to deceive voters in the native state of Will Rogers, the cowboy humorist.

'Bugs' Moran, Aide, Free in Gang Death

CHICAGO, July 13.—(AP.)—George (Bugs) Moran, one-time rival of Al Capone, and Leo Mongoven, his erstwhile principal lieutenant, were at liberty today to resume their self-proclaimed roles of "country gentlemen."

Both were releaesed from the Detective Bureau last night after witnesses in the killing of George (Red) Barker, labor terrorist, failed to identify them.

Meatmen Picnic At West View Park

The Retail Meat Dealers are holding their annual outing today at West View Park. Sports, dancing and entertainment features are on the program, and Senator James J. Davis is scheduled for an address.

An exhibition of Slovak national dancing, accompanied by a 20-piece Gypsy band, is one of the features of the annual Slovak outing and celebration at Kennywood Park today. The program also includes addresses, baseball and mushball games, track and field events.

WIFE BEATING SUSPECT HELD

When Carl Riebel, 30, of South Twenty-seventh street, was arraigned in South Side Police Court today, he discovered the police wanted him for more than his alleged beating of George D. Skillen, 42, of 43 Haberman avenue.

Skillen testified that after he and Riebel had gone to several parties, Riebel beat him and robbed him of $43. For this Riebel was fined $25.

Then police testified Riebel was accused of beating his wife, Cecelia Riebel, 28, when he met her in the street. Riebel was held pending developments in the condition of Mrs. Riebel, who is in the South Side Hospital.

Peace in Industry Need Now, Says Doak

SILVER BAY, N. Y., July 13.—(INS.)—Peace in industry is today the thing most greatly to be desired, Secretary of Labor Doak said in a message he sent to the conference of smaller industries being held here.

The present, he said, was marked "by an almost total absence of strikes, lockouts and disorders."

When the King Vidor-Eleanor Boardman mess goes to court, an obscure lass will take the rap . . . The Rex Leases (Eleanor Hunt) who had the rivets melted, are Cupiding again . . . Helene Costello and Hugh Trevor are plenty voom-voom . . . The A. Kerwins (Claire Ray), who were sealed only the other day—exploded and parted the same sundown . . . The Sport Ward-Helen Meany fire is beyond control . . . Allen Landley, chief of the firm bearing his tag, will succeed Whitney as president of the Stock Exchange . . . Edith Babson, who is too pretty, is R. Columbo's severest headache . . . The Charles Lederers (she was Jesse Lewis of the 1915 "Follies") are plotting an unhappy ending—his third.

The James Cagneys are incog at the Wellington under her maiden name—Vernon . . . Broadway gamblers have been commissioned to take all wagers, at even coin, that Roosevelt will not dispossess Mayor Walker . . . Gertrude Purcell was injured seriously in a coast crash—Bob Spencer, handling the wheel, was unhurt . . . The Walter Stewarts (Eileen Allen) will blessed-event this month . . . Marcella and Pat Burke, of the movie mags, are unwinding amicably . . . Ralph Graves, reported by the wire services as being freed from his squaw, is Genevieve Tobin's new heart, and they may blend when she returns . . . Garbo's only representatives are Buehler, King and Miller of 270 Madison.

Gary Cooper, invariably listed with that titled femme, takes Tallulah Bankhead to Santa Barbara regularly . . . The John (Frances Masury) Redfields, of the local azure set, anticipate an heir . . . Gilbert Roland is forgetting his "great loss" with Claudie King . . . David Burton and Mona Maris are drinking out of the same saucer . . . Anna Sten, the blonde Soviet importation to Hollywood, dropped a bundle of gold at Agua Caliente's "nothing ventured, nothing gained" spots . . . Gil Boag (Gilda Gray's ex) who once figured heavily on Broadway when the lights were lit, is now exploiting an indie movie due at the Vanderbilt . . . "Show Boat" took another 25 per cent shave . . . L. Holtz is Mary Alyce Rice's current shadow . . . Many of the tonier speaks, hungry for patronage, are no longer locking the front door.

Messmore Kendall's daughter, Betty, now on the movie scene, and Polan Banks, of Universal flickers, are uh-huh . . . Agnes De Mille, the famed director's niece, is staging the footwork for "Flying Colors" . . . Howard Dietz is putting up most of the coin . . . Gerald White, the stage manager, and Leota Foster, of "The 3rd Little Show" are oh, dear! . . . Because Hannah Williams didn't sign for the new Billy Rose revusical, he is baiting Zelma O'Neal, her only aggravation . . . Lew Cody is due in town, but the Peggy Eleanor romance is colder than a cafeteria meat-ball . . . Tarzan Weissmuller is a great guy, and all that, but one wishes he'd quit posing for stills with his paws on his hips.

An orchid to "Freaks" at the Rialto . . . Ditto to the Cotton Club's new crew, particularly when they mute three trumpets and render the melancholy "Star Dust" . . . A scallion to those who haven't as yet given any reward to the finder of the Lindbergh child . . . An orchid to the zip and pace of the Paramount show . . . Recommended to diversion seekers: "The White Lily," Paree's favorite—½ gin, ½ liquid peppermint, and by all means, "Two Broken Legs"—one oz. pure spirits in a glass, three pieces diced ice, fill with sweet cider—and birdies become eagles.

H. N. Swanson has completely shelved Collitchumor and is growing up in Hollywood . . . The softest job in town right now is being a dramatic critic . . . One of the better known magazine cover illustrators is wasting too much time being That Way over Pauline ("Hot-Cha") Moore, who Belongs to Somebody Else . . . Elliott White Springs' pappy disinherited him, and then changed his mind—and left him 12 million in stocks which disinherited Elliott in six tumbling months . . . The Republican National Committee is planning to advertise Herbert for President over the regular national ether hookups—with crooners and everything . . . Universal is excited over Georgette Carneal's "Great Day," one of the better tomes . . . Ted Hammerstein, feuding with the sponsors of "Thanks A Lot," floored Frank Farnum and wound up with a black eye from Bob London.

Joan Crawford's costliest frock was torn from her form by dizzy admirers at the Bremen departure . . . Joan Blondell's newest gift from George Barnes is a brooch with 24 diamonds and four rubies . . . when Barbara Stanwyck's flicker, "The Night Flower," was done, execs discovered the title had nothing to do with it . . . Its new handle is: "The Purchase Price" . . . Bette Davis, the newest of the moom-pitcher eyefuls, snubs the Hollywood hopefuls because of a senior at Amherst . . . It's a boy over at the A. Jarvis' . . . William Morrow will publish Isobel Paterson's new novel, "Never Ask the End," in Aug. . . . Add romances: Sally Phipps and James Cromwell.

New York City will shortly derive a new and heavy income from the sale of advertising space on refuse cans . . . The reason The New Poor are spending so much time at swanky beach spots is that it costs only $250 a season for cabanas—and they've set up housekeeping in 'em . . . They save garage rent because parking space is free—but how they make gin in a cabana shower bath is a mystery . . . U. S. Marine officers who fly Hoover's mail to Rapidan are upset because they have to dine with the camp servants . . . Al Smith won't have anything to do with the campaign until after Labor Day—and he will devote himself to the State Ticket—catch on? . . . Chicago's most torrid night club, the Frolics, has folded . . . Because he saved them with 13 million, Wm. Fox may be Paramount's new chief within the fortnight.

Nineteen revues and musicals have been announced for August and September—nobody knows why . . . Slick realtors fainted in droves on Friday when Seabury announced he would investigate the real estate bond situation . . . entertainers on sustaining programs are rating $10 a broadcast . . . When the smart set say they are "roughing it" they mean they've left their gems at home . . . If the Roxy reopens, Jessel and Talmadge will share a 12G salary per week . . . Description of a noted comedian: "He dreads only two things—cancer—and anyone else in the show getting a laugh" . . . The theater sticheeayshun in a sentence: Of the 87 houses, over 50 are actually in camphor, so certain are the owners they won't reopen for an age . . . Warner's new stock company seeks 12 gals who have "everything" . . . Apply at the Flatbush studio and ask for Roy Mack . . . Allan Dinehart and Caryl Lincoln are blazing . . . Mexican Film Still Stirs Rumors

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 13. Various rumors are circulating here concerning the fate of "Que Vive Mexico," the film that S. M. Eisenstein spent more than a year photographing in the southern republic.

The Russian director, it is said, has fallen out with his backers and will not cut the picture. In fact, the entire negative, 270,000 feet, is reported to be in Hollywood awaiting commercial disposal. There is even a possibility that it will be sold piece-meal for atmosphere shots.

S. M. Eisenstein

To queries about the picture, Upton Sinclair, Socialist writer and one of the backers, comments briefly: "There is no news. It would be unfair to say anything at present.

Within the last two weeks, however, at least one big Hollywood producer has had a private showing of part of the film. Those who have seen it are unanimous in declaring its photography to be superlative.

IT'S THE LIFE!

Take it from a certain Hollywood comedian, country life is the thing.

"You fellows in the city," he declaims, "never draw a breath of fresh air, never have any room to expand in. Look at me. I lead the simple life. I'm up every morning by 6 o'clock. By 6:30, I'm swacko!"

BOULEVARD TALK

Universal cameramen were threatening a strike Sunday because the studio has taken their names off the credit sheet on the screen. Film editors, art editors, etc., also are that downcast. Under the new ruling, only the author of the story, one adapter and the director get their names mentioned. And the cast, of course. The studio feels the introductory titles to pictures are entirely too long and that the slash is a reasonable one.

Within a few days now, Marion Davies expects to finish her picture, "Blondie of the Follies," which many declare to be her best talkie to date. Edmund Goulding did the direction . . . Credit Billie Burke with a sense of humor. When she arrived here with her daughter several days ago, a reporter asked if the two of them would emulate the Barrymores and play in a picture together. "So far," smiled Billie, "she's confined herself to encouraging her mother. Anyway, to offer any real competition, I'd have had to reinforce myself earlier" . . . Jean Hersholt's coming departure to New York has a threefold purpose; to make personal appearances, to meet his sister whom he hasn't seen in 22 years and to accompany the Danish Olympic team back to Hollywood.

Resting

ALSO FOR YESSING

Speaking of the Olympics, Al Jolson proposes a special Pentathlon for the film capital. Suggested events are:

Alibiing—Contestants will be required to bring their own petards for the hoisting exercises.

Superlativing—This event to be staged on a sidewalk outside a theater after a preview. Only contestants who can hurdle "marvelous," "stupendous," "terrific," "colossal" and "gargantuan" will be permitted to compete in the finals.

Contract-jumping — Entries limited to actors who have three or four agents suing them for commissions.

Premiering—Contestants must show affidavits that for the last 20 Hollywood openings they have not deviated from the radio blurb: "Folks, I know this is going to be a great picture; I wish you were here."

Conferring—this is planned as a sort of Marathon, the winner to be determined by the high score of the pinochle game inside the office and the number of people waiting outside at the end of the day, with special points awarded for the highest number of "Who's calling?" by secretaries.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

THERE IS, in this funy town, an employer who has a strange method of rewarding his faithful employes. He does it via the rent route. That is to say, when an employe gets married or becomes a parent, the boss doesn't hand out an extra week's vacation and let it go at that. Not this bird. His scheme, as far as he is concerned, is much more practical.

On any big occasion, he pays one month's rent for the employe. He calls in the young lady or the young man and always goes through a regulation formula that he has mapped out for himself. He sits the employe near his desk, smiles in what is supposed to be a winning fashion and talks in a soft voice.

"You have been with me for some time now," he asserts, "and I have always considered you a model employe. That is to say, you have the interests of our organization at heart. I am happy to say that I always make it a point to reward such service.

"They tell me now that you are getting married in a short time. If you will permit me to pay the first month's rent on the apartment in which you choose to live, I will be only too happy to do so. I trust that meets your approval."

It goes without saying that the proposition always meets with the heartiest approval. And inasmuch as the rentals never hit beyond the $100 mark, with some as low as $40, the boss makes a decided impression upon his employes at a nominal cost. Not a bad idea . . .

In his employ at the present time is a young man who has been with the organization some eight years. He became a married man back in 1924, and the boss gave him the regular routine. The employe said he was going to pay $75 a month for his apartment—and the boss very promptly forwarded his check for that amount to the young man's wife.

Before less than a year had elapsed, the same employer became a father. Once more, he was summoned to the boss's office.

"Mr. Brown," said his employer, "I have been informed of the happy news. I congratulate you and trust you will become one of the proudest parents in the land.

"Meanwhile, in addition to my congratulations, I have a more material way of expressing the good will of our organization. When you were married you were sent a check for a month's rent. Now that you are a father, we intend doing just as we did before.

"Your wife will have a check for $75 in the morning. By once more paying your rent, I feel that we are doing our share toward making you proud of your job and your station in life."

Well, my friends, 14 months later there was another baby. And, accordingly, another rent check for $75. But this time the boss wasn't quite so cordial. He failed to make any lengthy speeches or to use any glowing words. After all, there had been three checks in a very short time. And enough was enough, as the wise men say.

That was his viewpoint, however, and not his employer's. Before anyone could quite realize that the time could pass so quickly there were three more babies in the young man's family. The last one arrived a month or so ago, and the boss was growing slightly dizzy. Business wasn't any too good now, and those $75 checks were not to be tossed around as they once were.

Shortly after the last check had been mailed out, the boss's secretary walked into his ofice with a thoughtful expression on her face.

"I don't like to spread office gossip," she said, "but this is something I think you should know. Mr. Brown has been grumbling around the office for several days. He's been referring to you as a cheap skate and a piker, and he has threatened to quit on more than one occasion."

The boss turned a pretty shade of purple.

"What's that?" he roared. "Brown dares to call me a piker when I've sent him more $75 rent checks than I have to the rest of the force put together! Him with more babies than he can count! What reason does he give?"

His secretary clasped her hands.

"He says that he's been paying $85 a month rent for the last two years," she murmured apologetically, "and that you have been deliberately gypping him!" . . .

THEY TELL of a college student who was taking a course in modern writing. Just before going to class one morning the youth suddenly remembered that the students had been ordered to prepare an article for that day as a preliminary examination test.

With no time to write something of his own, the youth grabbed a copy of the American Mercury and copied, word for word, some of the writings of H. L. Mencken. He handed the paper in. And the following morning it came back with a marking of 100 per cent.

The boy was completely surprised. He hadn't even been suspected. So when the next test came along, he employed the same trick. He copied an article by George Jean Nathan and handed it in under his own name. That, too, came back with a marking of 100 per cent.

The youth was now supremely confident. This was a cinch, and it was obvious that the professor knew nothing about anything. He grew still bolder. In fact he grew too bold. When the third and final test came along, he copied one of Mark Hellinger's alleged articles and turned that in as his own. Hellinger's copy came back with a marking of 60 per cent, which meant that it had just passed.

The student decided to brazen this thing out. After all, the teacher had proven himself a pretty stupid bird. So the student walked up to the professor as soon as class was over.

"I can't understand this marking," he said. "You give me a perfect rating on my first two articles—and, on my third, you just pass me. Why is that?"

The professor looked very tired.

"You're lucky," he sighed. "I don't mind giving Mencken 100 per cent, and I certainly don't mind giving Nathan 100 per cent. But I'll be darned if I even wanted to pass Hellinger!" . . .

* * *

EXACTLY WHY the episode gave me such a terrific kick, I don't know. Perhaps it was because the remark was so totally unexpected. However—

I was having dinner at the Shore Island Club last Sunday night and the waiter at our table looked vaguely familiar to me. More, the man spoke and acted in a thoroughly cultured manner.

"I've seen you before, haven't I?" I asked. "You were in one of the Broadway clubs, weren't you?"

He shook his head.

"No, sir," he returned. "I've never been a waiter before. You probably met me along Broadway on several occasions."

"Probably," I agreed. "What line were you in?"

He hesitated. Then he smiled.

"I was a great follower of the race track," he said.

He picked up some dishes. Then he smiled again.

"And that," he murmured, "is why I'm a waiter now." . . .

Fat Girls! Here's A Tip For You

All over the world Kruschen Salts is appealing to girls and women who strive for an attractive, free from fat figure that cannot fail to win admiration.

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses and does it SAFELY and HARMLESSLY.

In the morning take one-half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast—cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar.

"It's the little daily dose that takes off the fat" and "brings that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.

But be sure for your health's sake that you get Kruschen. A bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs you little. You can always get Kruschen at any drug store and money back if not satisfied with results after first bottle.

Speakership Campaigns Already Under Way

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 13.—Though the special session of the Legislature is not over, and the regular session is six months ahead, campaigns already are under way on behalf of several prominent House members for the speakership.

Mr. Shields

C. Jay Goodnough, of Cameron County, present Speaker, has said he would not be a candidate for re-election to that office. Goodnough was chosen in the 1931 session through the combined strength of Gov. Pinchot and former Senator Joseph R. Grundy, who then controlled the House. Today that control has been lost, largely through the defection of the bulk of the Allegheny County delegation, which has its own candidate for the speakership.

It is expected the Philadelphia organization will give Allegheny County some assistance in this effort, the two big cities feeling that after two regular sessions it is time the presiding officer should come from a populous center, and Philadelphia having had the speakership since Allegheny was so rewarded.

Dr. Joseph G. Steedle is looming as the choice of Allegheny County. He is the House leader of the organization, and has been chairman of the powerful appropriations committee, giving general satisfaction to the majority of the members in his dealings with their important appropriation bills. He has the solid support of the group loyal to the leadership of Senator James J. Coyne, which dominates the delegation.

James H. McClure, chairman of the Judiciary General Committee, and an Assistant County Solicitor, is another sometimes mentioned, as he has been before, but McClure has not the standing of Steedle with the organization.

* * *

Coyne Appears to Have Perfected Agreement

Coyne appears to have perfected friendly working agreement with Philadelphia, and the state organization, evidenced by his selection as a member of the Ainey investigating committee, and this is an edge for Steedle which McClure lacks.

There are many other candidates, one of the oddest developments being the ambitions of Representatives Ellwood Turner and Grover Talbot, both from Delaware County, whose names are linked as leaders of a bloc in the House managing a relief program of its own. On the surface they are friendly, and underneath is no severely strained relation, yet, but each wants the speakership. That means there must be a compromise distressing to one.

Some months ago Talbot's name was floated out of Philadelphia as the logical choice for speaker because of his prominence as author of the Talbot relief bill in the last special session. This publicity was exceedingly annoying to friends of Turner, who promptly made their feelings known, and State Chairman Edward Martin, in whose presence the original Talbot story had been sprung, disavowed promptly any intent by the state committee to influence the selection at this time.

Some of Turner's friends asserted that Talbot had not been responsible for the preparation of the bill bearing his name, and was merely handed the measure for introduction. Then they started a counter-boom for Turner, who is popular with most House members, and not disliked by the utility companies which will probably have something to say about organization of the next Legislature.

Two other candidates are Representatives Wade, of Cumberland and Sheffer, of Mifflin, leaders of a House bloc in rivalry to Turner and Talbot. They represent the rural element, and both have worked somewhat in harmony with the Governor, but it is doubtful if the pretensions of either will be seriously considered, neither heretofore has taken a leading part in legislative affairs, and have their names attached to bloc leadership more as a matter of identification than anything else.

Ainey Situation Political Dynamite

When the Senate reversed itself Monday night and decided expediency pointed the advisability of a quick "grand jury" hearing of the charges against Chairman W. D. B. Ainey, of the Public Service Commission, there was considerable inner circle discussion as to the makeup of the committee of seven to sit as inquisitors with the attorney general.

This Ainey situation is political dynamite. If it should be decided that charges Ainey accepted $150,000 from the late Thomas E. Mitten, traction magnate, are false, there will be cries of whitewash, no matter how strong the facts in support of his exoneration.

On the other hand, should it be decided that the inquiry should be pressed before a standing committee of the Senate, Ainey's friends are apt to charge that he is being crucified to make a Roman holiday for Gov. Pinchot and enemies of the Public Service Commission.

Under the conditions, the chairmanship of the committee was no eagerly sought post. A happy solution came with the selection of Senator William S. Rial, of Greensburg. Senator Rial was defeated in the spring primary for renomination.

BILL TO ABOLISH TAX POST HERE MENACED

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, July 13.—The Mansfield bill to abolish the fee office of delinquent tax collector in Allegheny County may not be acted on by the committee on counties and county seats before next Monday, threatening its death in the last-minute legislative jam, even if it is approved.

Senator Fred Gelder, of Susquehanna County, temporary chairman of the committee, today said he was not sure whether he could get action this week, though the committee late yesterday listened to an uninterrupted demand for passage of the measure by representatives of civic and trade groups from Allegheny County.

ORGANIZATION DISSENTS

Gelder said he had been informed by Senator James J. Coyne that there were opponents to the bill who were unable to be present yesterday, and there was a disposition on the part of the chairman to delay matters in their behalf. The atmosphere of the hearing indicated that the state organization at this time is not prepared to shear from the Kline-Coyne organization the fat takings of the delinquent tax office.

Senator William D. Mansfield, who as County Commissioner sits on the salary board which would fix additional compensation of the County Treasurer in the event he should be saddled with the job of collecting delinquent taxes, appeared willing to compromise on the bill to the extent of cutting the fees to 4 or 5 per cent for borough and township tax collectors, not putting the offices on a straight salary basis.

FEAR HARSH ACTION

Several senators on the committee appeared fearful that the salary board might deal harshly with the Treasurer, apparently ignoring the fact that this board sets the salaries for many other positions in the county government, and is directly responsible

Labor Cites Duty To Vote Job Aid

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 13.—(INS.)—It is the "solemn duty" of Congress to remain in session until an adequate unemployment relief program is passed, a resolution adopted by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, in session today, declared.

Payroll Slash Saves $2,000,000, M'Govern Says; Drive Goes On

By elimination from the county payroll of political parasites, drones and pensioners more than $2,000,000 has been saved, and during the next six months further reductions will be made, according to County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, in a formal statement today. He said:

"The county payroll has been reduced by $2,144,853.44 from the 1931 total when total expenditures for salaries and wages amounted to $6,133,975.75. This did not include the payrolls for other county elective offices. When this year's budget was made $4,683,441.54 was fixed for salaries and wages. Since that time the pruning knife has been applied. Consequently, the total for salaries and wages will approximate $3,989,122.31. This represents a savings in the 1932 budget itself of $694,319.23 less than what the set-ups asked for.

"Despite the drastic reductions made, the county's business has been dispatched just as thoroughly and effectively as when the payrol. was loaded with political parasites, drones and pensioners.

"These reductions, ruthless as they may seem, no doubt will work hardships upon many that have been or still are on the payroll. But the County Commissioners owe a duty to the people, and the continuance of a swollen payroll for the maintenance of an army of political workers, useless and inefficient, is wasteful and inexcusable.

"While these reductions and removals may work hardships upon relieved county payrollers, it is far better to remove the hardships and burdens of heavy taxation from the vastly greater army of taxpayers, consisting of home owners and small businessmen of the county. It is infinitely better to separate county payrollers from sinecures and to reduce wages than to suffer thousands of homes, stores and business buildings to go under the sheriff's hammer."

McGovern's figures are estimated for the last six months of 1932. The actual cash savings in the payroll for the first six months show a net decrease of $239,151.35, according to the figures in Controller Robert G. Woodside's office. The new board of commissioners did not start to slash the payroll until May. The net decrease multiplied by six would total $1,434,908.10.

GIRL THREATENS LEAP; HELD

Margaret Davis, 25, leaped into the limelight today by threatening to leap from the Sixth Street Bridge.

Docketed as Mary Smith, without a home, she was later identified by police as the Davis woman who a short time ago, while awaiting trial in Morals Court, did $50 damage to the Central Police Station detention room.

Patrolman Frank Bassett, who arrested the girl at Sixth street and Duquesne way, said she had told several persons she was going to jump from the Sixth Street Bridge.

SEIZE BELLEVUE THEFT SUSPECT IN GUN CHASE

Chased over Bellevue streets by his intended victim, a burglar suspect fired two shots at his pursuer. Both shots went wild and Bellevue police, taking up the chase, captured the fugitive a short time later on a Woods Run street car at Brighton road and Woods Run avenue.

The suspect, who said he was Jack Frazer, 18, of Jackson, Miss., was being questioned by Bellevue police and county detectives today in the hope of clearing up a number of unsolved house burglaries in the Bellevue district several months ago.

Frazer was alleged to have been ransacking the home of Kirke P. Harger, at 153 Lincoln avenue, late last night when he was discovered by Mrs. Harger. Shoving Mrs. Harger aside, the suspect fled and was chased by Harger, who was attracted to the front of the house by his wife's screams. At Margaretta street, Harger told police, Frazer turned and fired twice at him.

Bellevue police said they believed Frazer to be the son of a prominent Pittsburgh family. The suspect, however, insisted Jackson, Miss., was his home.

Man Burned to Death As Truck Hits Culvert Blamed for Collision

NEWPORT, Pa., July 13.—(AP.)—C. H. Doubt, 32, of McKees Rocks, burned to death this morning when a truck on which he was a passenger hit a culvert, overturned, and burst into flames five miles east of here on the William Penn Highway.

G. Clendening, of 1204 Irwin avenue, the driver, told the state highway patrol and Dr. J. E. Book, Perry County Coroner, that Doubt was sleeping on the seat beside him and suddenly grabbed his arm.

Clendenning said he lost control of the truck and it crashed into a culvert. Clendenning escaped injury. The truck, owned by R. Clendenning, of Pittsburgh, was destroyed. It was loaded with automobile tires.

Edwin Doubt, of 313 Sefler street, McKees Rocks, this afternoon was notified of the death of his son. He said his son, formerly a taxi driver, had left home a week ago.

None of the proprietors of the Irwin Tire Exchange, 1204 Irwin avenue, were there today, but a neighbor said a truck with one of the Clendenings aboard left yesterday morning.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 13.

To the Editor Sun-Telegraph:

Say, the more you read of that bill for relief that the President vetoed, the more you can see he was right. It was going to loan money to individuals. Now it's right to have the government feed and help get jobs, but to loan everybody money that needs it to pay off somebody else that they owe. Well, in the words of my old friends the two black crows, "You can't do that." Besides borrowing from one fellow to pay another one don't do any good. Just keep on owing the same fellow. He has got used to "carrying" us by now. In other words, let's don't change creditors while crossing a stream. Yours, WILL.

Mahogany Plank Great Worry to Senator Bingham

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

But why should he plug for 2.75 beer when we are doing better than that right now?

The Mexicans have the right idea about prohibition with the stuff they call aqua ardente or pulque or something. It's milk in the morning and dynamite at night.

They feed it to babies for breakfast. But at twilight one drink of it makes your ears slap the sides of your head in applause.

We could make that our national drink and please everybody. The drys could sip it early in the day while the wets could tackle it at twilight.

VETS WILL HOLD BONUS RALLY TONIGHT

A mass meeting to rally recruits and support for the B. E. F. in Washington will be held tonight in the Harris Theater, downtown.

Walter W. Waters, commander of the capital camps, will arrive by plane, accompanied by Mrs. Waters. Attorney Cyrus Davis flew to Washington today to pilot the party here. Mayor "Eddie" McCloskey, of Johnstown, will present motion pictures he photographed at the camp to show conditions under which the veterans are living.

Waters will make the principal address, explaining conditions and answering questions for veterans wishing to join the bonus brigade. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock.

Wife of Bonus Veteran Stranded in Capital

Bonus marching has the Huey family, of 5445 Penn avenue, literally running around in circles between here and Washington, trying to get together.

Mrs. George Huey, organizer of the bonus wives of Pittsburgh, left here Saturday expecting to see her husband and 7-year-old son when she arrived in the capital.

On the same day her husband and son, George, left the Anacostia bonus camp and started home. Half way between here and Washington, husband and wife passed each other, unknowingly.

Mrs. Huey arrived in Washington yesterday, hungry and broke, only to find that the object of her long journey was back in Pittsburgh. Walter W. Waters, commander of the B. E. F., provided her with a tent and food.

Huey, who has been in charge of the East Liberty group in Washington, is going to leave for Washington tomorrow with his son.

Another Dancer Quits In Marathon Pay Row

Attempts to organize a brotherhood, or (have it your own way), sisterhood of marathon dancers came to grief at Motor Square Garden, but another contestant had dropped out today in compliance with the protest of his parents, who insisted he should receive 25 cents an hour for his "sleep-walking."

Walter Koehler, 19, was the latest to drop out, leaving 12 couples and his partner, Laura Rapina, dancing alone. Walter's father, John Koehler, headed a group of irate parents who presented the 25-cents an-hour demand to Joseph Mazer, manager, and C. H. Pressey, promoter of the dance. Yesterday the boy had steadfastly refused to leave the dance, but last night he left the floor when word was brought that his mother would enter a hospital for an operation today.

California Vets Camp On Lawn of Capitol

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(INS.)—The weird spectacle of more than 500 tattered bonus marchers asleep on the lawn of the Capitol greeted pristine Washington today.

The tired veterans slept like dead men, with newspapers for blankets and their arms for pillows, on ground which signs boldly proclaimed taboo to trespassers.

Led by a man with a broken neck, they trekked to the Capitol to present a petition to Congress for payment of soldiers' adjusted compensation certificates gathered on the lawn and settled down for the night. They stayed there in defiance of all regulations and in spite of vigorous efforts of police to send them to their quarters downtown. They announced they intended to stay there until Congress does something about their bonus.

The new, bold move was carried out by the California contingent of marchers under the leadership of Roy W. Robertson, of Los Angeles. Robertson has a broken spinal vetebra, and his head is strapped tightly to a steel yoke suspended from a framework around his back. He is the undisputed, hard-boiled leader of a sun-tanned band of Westerners, obviously the most determined of the hundreds of units here in the bonus camps.

FUND SHORTAGE PUT AT $9,854 IN WEST VIEW

West View councilmen today were studying a report of borough auditors, submitted to them last night, which revealed a shortage in the accounts of Harry J. Wagner, former borough treasurer, after whose sudden death last February the audit was ordered.

Final action will be taken after the auditors are questioned on July 26.

The report showed a shortage of $9,854.34 in 1931, of which $5,000 was in the sinking fund, and the remainder in the general fund. In a letter with the report the auditors said several papers, among them warrants and bank sheets, were missing. The closing of the Citizens' Bank of Bellevue, borough depository, also handicapped the auditors, they said.

TAX POST BAN FACES DEFEAT

to the taxpayers. Mansfield and Senator Frank J. Harris declared permitting the salary board to fix the pay was a direct step toward home rule.

If the bill should finally pass the Senate it will, unless there is much additional pressure, find hard going in the House, occupied right now with a grist of appropriation bills designed to provide unemployment relief.

MALONE BACKS BILL

James F. Malone, former president of Council, was chief spokesman for proponents of the Mansfield bill, pointing out that because of delinquencies in taxes during a depression the tax collector is making more money now than ever.

He used a table prepared by M. C. Connick, of Main & Co., who has been carrying on an audit of the county government for the Commissioners. It was shown that the net commissions of the tax collector have risen from $59,982.41 in 1928 to $106,265.18 in 1931, and will be higher for 1932. The total of delinquent taxes for 1931 was $2,067,604, of which the tax collector received 10 per cent, paying from the total the expenses of his office.

Malone pointed out that the delinquent tax collector received more than the Mayor and his cabinet, more than City Council, more than the legislative delegation from Allegheny County, and almost as much as the Governor and his cabinet.

FAVOR ABOLITION

J. Roland Brady, executive secretary of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, said his organization had been working for the abolition of the fee office for several years.

Others who favored passage of the bill were George B. Snyder, Dr. A. L. Lewin, David E. Brown and C. V. Shoup, of the Allied Board of Trade; Marion K. McKay, president of the Civic Club of Allegheny County; Miss Gertrude Ely, president of the State League of Women Voters; Hubbs Weimer, of the Allegheny County Building and Loan Association, and R. B. Hutchinson, chairman of the Taxpayers' Association of Wilkinsburg.

WILLIS L. KING

King Feels Certain U. S. Will Emerge From Slump

Hale and hearty at 82 and brimful of vigor which has carried him through 63 active years in the steel industry, Willis L. King, senior vice president of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, was back at his desk today anxious for at least 10 more anniversaries before he is ready for retirement.

He has seen them all since 1869, big and little, and has survived every one with a smile and greater determination. If he can outlive the present day state of business affairs, he says, he will consider it the gratest achievement of his life.

He confided:

"No, sir; I never saw a time when we were running as low as we are at the plant right now, but we'll come out of it and come out bigger than ever.

"The trouble with us in this trouble is that we have the worries of all Europe and everybody else on our shoulders along with our own. We never had to worry about Europe's troubles before."

DESERTED WHEN ILL, FREED

Charging her husband deserted her because she became ill, Frances T. Reinheimer, 23, of 197 Joseph street, Mt. Oliver, was granted a divorce from Frank C. Reinheimer, 31, of 414 Anthony street, by Judge James H. Gray. She said:

"I took ill and he left that afternoon. I suppose he did not want to pay the hospital bill."

AUDIT DROPPED IN CORAOPOLIS

Unless taxpayers instigate it, there will be no audit of Coraopolis affairs, it was revealed today, following action of the borough council last night in dropping a plan for ordering an independent investigation.

Miss Pauline Dillon, one of three borough auditors, who had charged that "irregularities" had been uncovered warranting an investigation, today said:

"I have given the warning. It is up to the people if they want an audit. It seems strange that council would go so far as to accept bids, and I am informed, virtually agree to award the audit to a certain firm and then call it off, because of a solicitor's opinion. Why didn't the solicitor so advise them before they went to all that trouble?"

Solicitor Herman C. A. Hofacker advised council that it could order an independent audit but might face a court protest against employing outside auditors to do what the borough auditors were paid for doing.

Decisive Results in Favor of O. G. Obtained by Scientists From Specimens of Four Leading Brands Purchased in 20 Different Parts of the Country

Independent tests conducted by scientists of two leading Eastern Universities corroborated the findings of the New York Testing Laboratories. The educators verified conclusively that Old Golds are the coolest of the four leading cigarette brands; indicating the use of finer quality tobaccos, the selection of milder and choicer leaf and the absence of heat-generating flavorings.

Purchasing their cigarettes through certified accountants in 20 different sections of the country with widely varying climatic conditions, the scientists said they were able to establish beyond all doubt that Old Golds' coolness was not altered by climatic extremes.

"There was no doubting the accuracy of the Oxygen Bomb Calorimeter—it is one of the most reliable methods for measuring heat-content known to Science," said one of the educators, "so we employed the same type of instrument.

"And when test after test showed Old Golds consistently cooler than the three other brands, and the Fahrenheit temperature of the smoke definitely cooler, there was no alternative but to decide for Old Golds," he insisted.

Inasmuch as coolness in a cigarette requires finer and purer tobaccos and absence of artificial flavoring, this scientific verdict proves Old Gold a cigarette of choicest tobacco quality—pure tobacco without added flavorings.

Selections from each lot of cigarettes bought for these tests have been sealed in airtight containers, labeled to show in which sections of the country they were purchased.

To any technical or scientific authority a signed report of the complete findings of these two scientists will be sent on request. P. Lorillard Company, Inc., 119 West 40th St., New York City.

Brief Biographies of Famed Journalists who saw Old Gold win Scientific Test

Sam Taub is one of the leading newspaper authorities on the boxing game. Both his column, "In a Ring-side Seat," and his radio broadcasts of leading fights are the last word to boxing enthusiasts.

Karl K. Kitchen's two columns, "Mr. Manhattan," which deals with New York personalities, and "Karl K. Kitchen Presents," appear in over 60 papers, and have a wide and loyal following.

Walter Trumbull's sparkling syndicated sports features, "The Listening Post" and "The Wearing of the Green" are followed eagerly by readers all over the country.

THE EVIDENCE OF SCIENCE

"This is to certify that in 75 repeated cool tests made of the 4 leading cigarette brands . . . measuring the heat content of each cigarette in B.T.Us. with the Oxygen Bomb Calorimeter, it was shown that:

Old Gold averages 112 B.T.Us. Cooler than Brand X
Old Gold averages 155 B.T.Us. Cooler than Brand Y
Old Gold averages 156 B.T.Us. Cooler than Brand Z

"To further verify Old Gold's coolness, the temperature (Fahrenheit) of the smoke of each cigarette brand was checked and Old Gold's smoke was found to be definitely cooler than the smoke of the other three brands."

SMITH MEN SEE ROOSEVELT

STONINGTON, Conn., July 13.—(AP.)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, bearing an olive branch, got his good ship Myth II ready today for a further cruise into Al Smith waters.

A light southwest wind carried the craft out of the harbor into Long Island Sound at 9:15 a. m., after a night in which there was scarcely a ripple on the water.

His goal today on his week's vacation sail aboard the 40-foot yawl is Wood's Hole, Mass., the state where Smith strength is notable. Last night, after he had dropped anchor in this placid harbor, he greeted J. Harold McGrath, Democratic state chairman from Rhode Island, and referred to that state's support of Smith at the National Convention. He said:

"I not only understand, but greatly appreciate Rhode Island standing by our old friend Gov. Smith and I know now I am going to receive the same display of loyalty."

This was in reply to assurances by a group headed by McGrath that Rhode Island, which stood by Smith to the end of the convention, would be in the Democratic column again this year.

MOVIE WORKERS TAKE PAY CUT

A wage reduction averaging approximately 23 per cent has been voluntary accepted by motion picture operators and projectionists in the larger movie houses of Pittsburgh, John H. Harris, general manager of the Warner Brothers' Theaters, Inc., announced. The reduction, effective for 10 weeks, is variable, being rated in seating capacity.

Michael Cullen represented Loew's and United Artists interests, and John O. Hooley, manager of R-K-O Sheridan Square Theater, the Warner interests. The union was represented by J. Shawkey, A. Criswell and C. Haviland.

$62,145 Judgment In Stock Yard Case

A judgment of $62,145.51 in favor of the Pittsburgh Joint Stock Yard Company and against the Pittsburgh Union Stock Yards Company was awarded by Judge A. B. Reid, the case growing out of a lease by the latter company from the former for 30 acres of Herrs Island.

The lease provided for the payment of taxes by the lessor, and a controversy arose during the past several years whether the lessor should pay taxes for the whole tract or the part it used.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

Should Hubby Hold All Purse Strings of Household?

Why does the little woman get mad when Joe makes her ask him for spending money?

It makes Joe very indignant.

"When I pay all the bills, willingly, and with no fuss," he snorts, "why shouldn't she be satisfied? Why should she insist on handling money herself?"

Then he goes on to explain that he's the big, strong guy who makes the money and he thinks he should hold the purse strings.

What do you think about it, Misses Jones? Mister Brown? Do you think hubby should control the cash and make the Misses beg the price of a soda? My dear Miss Martin:

I wish you would help me out on an argument that I am having with my wife. Will you?

She insists she should have an "allowance," and it seems to me like a lot of bunk. I pay all the bills for the support of the family, and willingly, too. She has charge accounts at various stores, and can buy whatever she needs. So long as that is true, why should she insist on handling money herself? Why isn't having me pay all her bills just the same as if she took out the money herself and spent it?

Why does she object to asking me for a few dollars, if she wants to go to a show, or take the girls she knows out for a soda or something?

Now I am not maintaining that she would be extravagant if I did give her the money. She worked before we were married, and she saved her money in a sensible way; so that part of it is not worrying me.

WIFE DISAPPROVES

It's just the principle of the thing. I feel that I, as the person who earns the money, should be the one to handle it. But she can't, or won't, see my point of view, so the argument comes up every so often, and it is getting so it annoys me a great deal.

Can you explain it to me? Why should a woman make such a fuss about this "allowance" business? If I were stingy I might be able to see the light, but I'm not. I've never refused to give her money for any immediate need she had. JOE.

Why does she object to coming to you for a dole, like a beggar?

Because she is a self-respecting human being, brother, and resents your high-hat attitude that she should beg it of you. And I suspect that you have a twisted streak in you that actually enjoys seeing her beg. I suspect that is the real reason for your refusal to give her a certain stated amount to use as she sees fit. It makes you feel big and important to "hold the strings" on her.

HUMILIATES HER

As a matter of plain justice, she has a right to money of her own. She is working hard to make your marriage a success. She is doing work that you would have to pay for, and pay plenty, is she didn't do it.

She gave up the freedom and independence and responsibility of managing her affairs to marry you, and it humiliates her to be put in the position of a sap who has a few pennies dribbled out to her as a favor.

Snap out of it! The fact that you earn the money down on the job doesn't make it all yours. She earns her share by working to make your marriage a success. She earns it by keeping your home. She is your partner, not just someone you're handing out condescending favors to, and you should realize it.

Give her that allowance. You'd be plenty sore if someone put you in the position you're trying to keep her in!

Beauty Has Had Misfortunes as Well as Good Fortunes, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

How truly it has been said of a beautiful girl that "her face is her fortune!"

But alas too often it has been her misfortune as well as her good fortune.

Beauty has been the magic wand that has changed many a Cinderella into a Princess.

But as time at the stroke of 12 changed the Princess in the fairy story back into Cinderella again, so has time turned good fortune into misfortune for many a beauty.

The histories of the greatest beauties who ever lived usually began in poverty and ended in tragedy.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Eczema Is Not Contagious

Eczema is perhaps the most common skin disorder, causing more distress than any other disease of the skin. Hardly a day passes that I do not receive a letter requesting information and advice about this disorder.

Dr. Copeland

The mother of a child suffering from this ailment often becomes frantic in her efforts to give the child relief. The disease is indeed distressing, and sometimes persists in spite of every effort on the part of the mother. She may resort to the use of salves of every description, and often these do more harm than good.

Eczema may occur at any age. It makes up 30 per cent of all skin diseases, most often affecting children and infants, and is much more severe and persistent when it occurs in infancy.

Eczema is described as an acute or chronic inflammation of the skin and is characterized by redness, scabs and crust formation, with marked itching and burning. The eruption is moist, in contrast to psoriasis, with which it is frequently confused. Psoriasis is a dry, silvery, gray-like inflammation of the skin, without marked itching.

Most mothers fear eczema and believe it to be contagious. On this account children with eczema are often subjected to unnecessary embarrassment and unhappiness. Please bear in mind that the disease is not "catching," and cannot be transmitted from one person to another.

While eczema is seldom seen in breast-fed babies, it is of common occurrence in the infant that is weaned at an early age and has difficulty in becoming adjusted to the bottle formula.

Constipation must be corrected if it exists, and the disease is often cured as soon as disorders of the digestive organs are corrected. All centers of infection, particularly enlarged tonsils and adenoids, should be removed.

If you have eczema, it is important to make every effort to improve your general health. Avoid excessive use of alcohol, tobacco, tea or coffee. Infections and nervous disturbances are frequently the fore runners of eczema. Overwork, insufficient sleep and lack of relaxation also must be corrected before eczema can be cured.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Margin for a Safe Double

Because even Aces and Kings cannot pass the barrier of opponents' trump suit, the safe margin for making Penalty Doubles has been placed at 2 tricks. The doubling of a contract in itself ordinarily gives to the Declarer an advantage in the play of the cards, as the Double probably locates honor strength and trump strength, and thus the player can plan his play more advantageously than he otherwise would.

In the general offices of the Carnegie Steel Company, Youngstown, O., there is generally a Bridge match played at the noon hour, according to Mr. John F. Quinn, who sent me the hand below, which is illustrative of the principle stated in the first sentence.

North—Dealer

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
		1 ♣	D'ble (1)
1 ♠ (2)	Pass (3)	3 ♠ (4)	D'ble (5)
Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) A sound Takeout Double, based on a hand containing 5 honor tricks.

(2) South responds to his partner's Opening bid without reference to the Double. His hand contains a biddable suit and more than 1 honor trick.

(3) In view of the fact that any bid by West would now be a free bid, his pass on his trickless holding is correct.

(4) North revalues his hand in support of his partner's Take-out and finds that he has adequate trump support, 2 tricks for the shortage in diamonds, and his club suit may afford valuable discards to his partner of losers in other suits.

(5) East is not aware of the rule that safeguards Penalty Doubles. He thinks he can count 5 tricks in his own hand against any adverse declaration. Even though his count is correct, the Double is still a bad one, as it may easily prevent North and South from contracting for four spades, in which case East undoubtedly has a sound Penalty Double.

As can be seen, the contract of three spades, doubled, was easily made, East taking only 4 of his 5 apparent tricks, as the shortage in diamonds in Dummy prevented the cashing of the second diamond trick, and South's shortage in hearts held the heart losers to 2 tricks, which, with the spade Ace, represented East's trick-taking ability.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

Why is the third card counted with A J 10 or K Q 10 and not counted with A K Q?

Answer: A J 10 and K Q 10 are valued at 1½ honor-tricks, because this is a tenace position and will result in winning an average of 1½ tricks when played in defense against an opponent's trump contract. A K Q is not counted as 3 honor-tricks, because it will not win 3 tricks against an opponent's trump contract, except relatively rarely, because in the majority of instances the third round of the suit will be ruffed. Its playing-trick value in support of own or partner's bid is, of course, 3 tricks, as there is slight danger of the third round being ruffed if the partnership has control of the trump situation.

Heart of a Wife -:- -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Everybody Puzzled Over Mary's Attitude

Harry Underwood's big body stiffened as if it had been struck with a lash when Lillian said that Charles Owen had asked Marion to marry him. Then he sprang to his feet and towered above his wife, his face terrifyingly black with anger.

"Did Marion tell you that?" he demanded.

"Yes, Harry, she did," she answered.

Mr. Underwood clenched his large shapely hands and I guessed that the nails were making half-moon creases in the palms.

"I'll kill that fellow!" he said savagely.

"I wish I'd saved you the trouble when Prince Georges had him at bay that time," Dicky said.

"I wish you had," Mr. Underwood said. Then Dicky struck in again.

"What's eating me is this," he said, slowly and in puzzled fashion. "This Owen person is an exceedingly foxy individual. He knows, since the Prince Georges episode, just what his standing is around this dump—a million or so below zero. I don't see how he dare go as far with Marion as this, unless he swore her to secrecy. He's concocting some scheme, or holds some cards that we don't know about if he dares come out in the open this way."

"But he didn't come out in the open," Lillian said.

"Do you feel like telling us what Marion told you?" her husband asked gently, "or was it a confidence that you can't betray?

"When I taxed Marion with her foolish actions concerning Mary," she said, "the child broke down, and owned to me the truth about Owen's proposal. She let me see how immensely flattered she was that so accomplished and handsome a man—he is devilish good-looking, you know—should have chosen her, 'a simple, foolish child' as she called herself, above all others for the honor of being his wife.

"Yes," as she saw the look upon our faces. "I agree with you, hanging's too good for him. But I couldn't tell that to Marion. I did manage, however, to sow a seed or two when she told me how grieved and disappointed she was that he had asked her to keep his offer a secret from everybody, including me, and had told her he feared that her father and I would never let her marry him."

"Did he say 'father' or 'stepfather?'" Harry Underwood asked softly, and Lillian threw her head back and looked him full in the eyes, challengingly.

"'Stepfather,' of course," she said, "but Marion said 'father.' And commented upon Mr. Owen's crassness in referring to you under the other name.

"Bless her!" the big man said softly, and then added, "What did Marion tell him?"

"She told him that she couldn't keep anything like that from her mother," Lillian went on, "and then the wily devil said that she would make a great deal of trouble for him if I found out what he had asked of her. He said he would not ask her to promise to keep a secret from me, but would leave it all in her hands.

"He also told her that the reason he was busying himself so much with Mary was for the purpose of keeping me in the dark about his true feelings, and that he really cared less than nothing for Mary."

"He wasn't very strong on psychology," Dicky said, "not when tackling a girl like Marion. But then a fellow with his ideals of conduct cannot be expected to understand the workings of a soul like Marion's."

"Yes, he overreached the mark a bit," Lillian said, "but I think he was in a panic for fear Marion would tell me."

"He probably couldn't get it through his head that any girl favored with his attentions could so far resist his wiles as to go counter to his wishes in anything," I said.

"So far, so good," Dicky said. "At least you have a good-sized wedge driven into the affair. But what in the name of the seven hinges is Mary up to?"

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Pirates Nosing Out Foe.
Grace Kills Trade Dope.
More Praise for Gibson.
Herman Explains Choice.
Chocolate Going Abroad.
Dempsey Steady Loser.

BUCS LEAD MAJORS IN ONE-RUN WINS

WITH THE PIRATES, it's the old story of a winning club. No matter how many runs the opposition manages to score, the Bucs generally may be depended on to come through with one more, even though the job of getting it is put up to the substitutes, as was the case yesterday, when Gus Dugas' second triple of the season knocked in the winning run after Dave Barbee had singled. The loss of the Waners failed to throw the Bucs out of their winning stride. The two men sent into their places produced the hits that brought victory.

Gus Dugas

Through getting the breaks and having the ability to take advantage of them, the Pirates have won more games by one run, and lost a smaller number by that margin, than any other club in either major league. Eighteen of the Pittsburgh club's 44 victories, or more than 40 per cent, have been won by a single run, and only eight have been lost by that edge. The Braves are next in the National League with 17 won and 9 lost. The Cards have won 14 and lost 9. All the rest have lost more games of that type than they have won. The Reds have dropped no fewer than 21 contests by a lone marker, eight of them by 3-to-2 scores. The Bucs have set up something of a record by winning three 8-to-7 games in the last five days and in capturing their last seven extra-inning contests.

AMONG THE THINGS that the success of the Pirates has demonstrated is the fact that you can't always judge a baseball trade accurately from the way it looks on paper. The Cubs were so glad to get Ralston Hemsley in exchange for Earl Grace last year that they threw in a bundle of money to boot.

The trade was considered ridiculously lopsided in Chicago's favor. But take a second look at it now. Grace has developed into a star and has had heaps to do with making the Pirates pennant contenders. He is as steady as a clock, whereas Hemsley is erratic and as hard as ever to handle. No doubt Rogers Hornsby would be delighted to trade back, but he wouldn't have a chance.

BASEBALL MEN ALL around the big circuits concede George Gibson to be the outstanding manager of the year as measured by achievements, according to Stan Baumgartner, former pitcher of the A's and now a writer for the Philadelphia Inquirer.

He says that if you ask any manager in the senior loop what club he will have to beat out for the pennant he will answer without hesitation, "the Pirates." In lifting to first place a club generally picked for fifth or lower, Gibby is conceded to have accomplished the greatest managerial feat since George Stallings made history with the Braves in 1914.

"WHAT SORT OF man is he?" Baumgartner continues. "A driver? No. Former and present-day Pirates say he is 'just a great guy for whom you can't help hustling.' His failing, if he has any, is being too lenient. What does he say about his club? When Pittsburgh played the Phillies in Philadelphia we sat on the bench and talked with Gibby for 15 minutes. He told us modestly: 'My club will get better. I knew we wouldn't be as bad as we appeared to be in spring training. At that time we were not able to do anything right. Our pitchers were not in shape and our hitters were terrible. They are beginning to click now.'"

Babe Herman

THESE SHARPS WHO, while saying that they do not wish to take any credit away from the Pirates in their sensational drive, cannot figure how the Bucs can beat out such clubs as the Cubs or Cards, will have to figure up again, in the opinion of Babe Herman.

Repeating his prediction of a few days ago that Pittsburgh will win the pennant, Herman recalls the achievement of the Pirates in beating the Cincinnati club five games in three days, and pronounces the local team a smooth-looking machine, made up of players filled with the desire to get somewhere. And they will get there, Babe declares, because they took a chance and put two youngsters at the midway.

"TRAYNOR AT THIRD is a steady man who can keep his fast young playmates moving along smoothly, with Suhi stopping everything at first base," the Red outfielder adds. "You can't show me anything like that young pair, Vaughan and Piet, in the league. I kept an eye on them in our last series and what they displayed in the line of sparkling plays was astonishing.

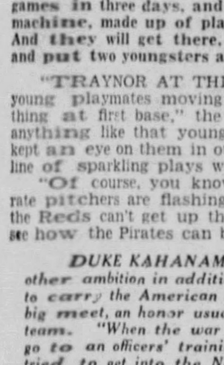
"Of course, you know all about the Waner boys. Too, the Pirate pitchers are flashing and the catching is immense. As long as the Reds can't get up there to take the flag, I'll admit that I can't see how the Pirates can be sent down the chute."

DUKE KAHANAMOKU, veteran Hawaiian swimmer, has one other ambition in addition to making the Olympic team. He wants to carry the American flag in the parade of nations opening the big meet, an honor usually reserved for the oldest member of the team. "When the war broke out," he said, "I was just ready to go to an officers' training camp. Then my father died. Later I tried to get into the Navy, but for some reason they turned me down. I tried to get into aviation and went to Washington in order to do so, but came down with double pneumonia, and I'm lucky to be here today. If I make the American team, I'm going to apply for the honor of carrying the flag. I think that would be the finest climax I could have to my career."

ANNOUNCEMENT THAT THE University of Southern California will send its own eleven eligible athletes, wearing college spangles, to the A. A. U. national track and field championship, to be held at Palo Alto Friday and Saturday in connection with the final Olympic tryouts, means in all probability that the A. A. U. team title will change hands.

Last year in Lincoln the championship was won by the Los Angeles A. C., but only because the Trojan college stars ran under the club colors, with Wykoff and Williams winning first places and others taking seconds and thirds. This time the club will have to get along without Wykoff, Stokes, Graber, Barber, Ablowich, Van Osdel and others, and coast opinion is that it can't do it and win. Failure to raise the money for the college boys' expenses was the obstacle.

IT IS NOT the intention of Kid Chocolate to hang around in this country waiting for that promised shot at the lightweight championship in a match with the winner of the Tony Canzoneri-Billy Petrolle title match on August 8.



Jack Dempsey

The Keed figures on a tour abroad. He has signed to meet Eddie Shea in Chicago on July 28 for the junior-lightweight title and will leave immediately afterward for France, where many lucrative engagements await him.

IT DEVELOPS THAT Jack Dempsey took it on the chin again in a financial way unless he pulled out at the last minute as one of the promoters of the Baer-Levinsky fight. The gate was less than $25,000, which meant another heavy loss for the former champion and his partners. Dempsey, as a fighter, was the greatest money-maker in the history of the ring, but as a promoter he has been a steady loser. One venture after another cut heavily into the fortunes he made in the roped square. Among his disastrous enterprises were a racing stable, a proposed Monte Carlo in Southern California, a hotel in Los Angeles, the stage flop called "The Big Fight," promoting fights in Chicago and the latest bout in Reno.

BENSON TIES BABCOCK AS RUNNERUP

BULLETIN.

Will Gunn, of Philadelphia, brother of Watts Gunn, Jr., local star, shot a 75 to take the lead this afternoon for the first 18 holes of the state amateur golf tournament qualifying round at Oakmont.

His card:

Out .... 4 4 4 5 5 4 3 3 4—36
In .... 4 4 5 3 5 4 4 4 6—39—75

By TOM BIRKS

Fred Brand, Jr., of the Shannopin Country Club, former captain of the Penn State golf team, carded a 76, four over par, to take the lead after most of the entrants in the Pennsylvania State Amateur golf championship had posted scores for the first half of the 36-hole qualifying test at the Oakmont Country Club today.

Brand was only one over par as he breezed out in 38, but a 6 on the par 4 tenth hole helped to boost his score three above par 35 for the homeward route. His card:

Out... 5 5 4 5 4 3 5 3 4—38
In.... 6 4 5 4 4 5 3 3 4—38—76

Jack Benson, 20-year-old shotmaker from the South Hills Country Club, who is to enroll at Pitt next fall, shared the runner-up berth with Raymond L. Babcock, Oakmont veteran, at 77.

BABCOCK STEADIES GAME

Babcock started out with a shaky 6-4-6, but, from the fourth hole until the finish, played brilliant golf. His card:

Out... 6 4 6 4 4 3 5 4 5—41
In.... 4 5 6 3 3 5 3 4 3—36—77

Benson played a more consistent game, being out in 39 and home in 38. His card:

Out... 4 3 4 6 6 3 5 4 3—39
In.... 4 4 5 3 6 4 4 4 4—38—77

Maurice (Ski) Le Bosquet, former West Penn amateur champion, from Highland, continued to display the fine brand of golf that he flashed earlier in the week in the state open and put together two 39s for fourth place with a 78. George McClure, Chartiers Heights star, trailed Le Bosquet by one stroke.

CHAMPION HAS 90

J. Lloyd Beyer, Jr., of Philadelphia, the defending champion, faced the possibility of failing to qualify to defend his crown after posting a 90 for his first round. Pulled tee shots had him in trouble on almost every hole. He was out in 43 and then took 47, 12 over par, on the in in nine.

Most of the scores ranged in the high 80s and 90s.

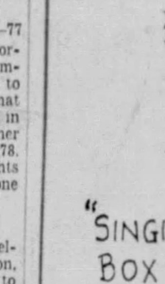
EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE MAGIC OF FIGURES—There is only one possible arrangement in a magic square of the third order. Already the square of the next order (4 by 4) can be transformed 4,352 different ways. The number of possible variations in a magic square 5 by 5 is 28,800. There are 363,916,800 possible ways of arranging the figures from 1 to 49 to form a magic square of the seventh order. From here on the possibilities of transforming the magic squares of a higher order increase in an astounding ratio. Huegel, the German mathematician, has undertaken the stupendous task of calculating all the possible arrangements of the figures from 1 to 169 in a magic square of the thirteenth order. According to his findings, the paper required for the printing of all the possible combinations would cover the surface of the earth 348 times. TROTTED TWO MILES WITH A BROKEN LEG—Although she was suffering from a clean fracture of the pelvic bone, Nedda Guy, 3-year-old trotting star of the 1931 season, trotted the first heat of the Hambletonian Stake at Goshen, N. Y., 1931, in 2:05¼ to finish fifth and then, even though considerably more lame, returned for the second heat and cut her time to 2:03½ to finish second, only a quarter of a second slower than the best time of Calumet Butler, the winner of the race. Nedda Guy then was so lame she had to be withdrawn and assisted off the track. When examination disclosed the fracture she was to suffer the usual fate of seriously injured racing horses, but her owner, Walter Cox, gave her such excellent care that she now is in sound condition and an outstanding contender for honors in the 4-year-old division. THE HORSEPOWER PARADOX—Horsepower is an arbitrary unit for measuring energy. It was evolved by Watt, who based it upon his observation of the work of dray horses in a London brewery. It is defined as the energy required to lift a load of 33,000 pounds out of a hole one foot deep in one minute. It does not represent the maximum effort of which a horse may be capable. In 1924, a light team of horses belonging to an Iowa farmer made a traction pull equaling the effort necessary to lift 32,500 pounds out of a hole one foot deep for a distance of 27½ feet. Either horse thus developed more than 13½ horsepower in the test. The feat of the Iowa team is a world record.

TOMORROW: A LITERARY MARVEL.

SEALS TO SING TONIGHT

Singing makes up the major portion of the program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in their weekly radio session over WCAE at 6:55 o'clock tonight.



Hub Rinehart

Herbert M. (Hub) Rinehart, local tennis player and baritone singer, returns by special request to sing two numbers, "When I'm Looking at You," from the "Rogue Song," and "To An Evening Star," by Richard Wagner.

Jerry Nyhan's Waynesburg College Quartet will be on hand for a series of numbers.

Piano accompaniment will be by Miss Marion Salmon, the Seals' pianist.

Rosy Stoy Victor Over Jackie Rodgers

YOUNGSTOWN, July 13.—Rosy Stoy, Lancaster southpaw, outpointed Jackie Rogers, of Pittsburgh, in a slashing 10-round bout here last night. Stoy surprised his admirers by outpunching Rogers all the way after the fourth round. There were no knockdowns.

BOWEN, SPITZ SHOW CLASS

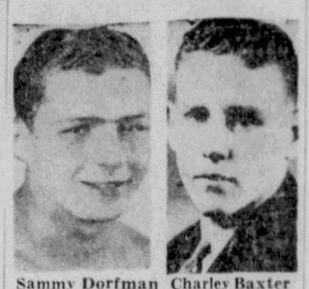
PALO ALTO, Cal., July 13.—(AP.)—Proving himself as capable outdoors as in, George Spitz, New York Athletic Club high jumper, cleared the bar set at 6 feet 8 inches yesterday in his first high-jumping workout here preparatory to the final Olympic trials Friday and Saturday.

Spitz pulled in yesterday morning with 11 New York A. C. teammates. Travel kinks from a long trip across the continent apparently meant nothing to him, and he provided one of the main shows in a myriad-ringed circus that saw the cream of Uncle Sam's candidates for the 1932 Olympic team go through their paces for the big windup this week-end.

Reginald Bowen, former Pitt star now of the New York A. C., a candidate for the 400-meters run, covered a 220-yard time trial under 22 seconds. Karl Warner, of Yale, and Arnold Adams, of Bates, were the only other one-lap stars doing heavy training. Bill Carr, of Pennsylvania, I. C. 4A champion, and Ben Eastman, of Stanford, applicant for world records at 440 and 880 yards and 800 meters, tapered off with light workouts.

The sprinting delegation numbered Ralph Metcalfe, sensational Negro performer of Marquette; Eddie Tolan, of Michigan; George Simpson, of Ohio State; Jimmy Johnson, of Illinois Normal; Emmet Toppino, of Loyola, New Orleans; Dick Hardy, of Cornell, and Ralph Montague, of San Francisco.

In Windup



Sammy Dorfman Charley Baxter

Herrick Scores Knockout in First

Stan Stenzinger, Krah A. C., 147-pounder, failed to last a round against Johnny Herrick, of the Twenty-seventh Ward Republican Club, last night at the club's seven-bout amateur boxing show. Herrick knocked him out early in the initial stanza for the only knockout of the program. Summary:

135-pound class—Jackie Fields, Twenty-seventh Ward Republican Club, defeated Sam Ferrick, Ambridge A. C., 3 rounds, decision. Otto Tarquian, Ambridge A. C., defeated Regis Golden, Bloomfield A. C., 3 rounds, decision. Joe Severino, Twenty-seventh Ward Republican Club, defeated Elmer Wilson, Superior A. C., 3 rounds, decision.

STARS ADVANCE AT LONGWOOD

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 13.—(AP.)—Marathon tennis became the rule yesterday while the fortieth playing of the historic Longwood Bowl tourney was being reduced to the quarter-finals.

After one of the seeded stars, Dick Murphy, of Utica, N. Y., surrendered to Elbert Lewis, of Los Angeles, 8-6, 6-4, in a postponed second rounder, four of the other favorites became locked in three-hour and longer struggles with unranked opponents.

Jake Hess, Ft. Worth, Tex., eighth in the draw, had a terrific task knocking Henry Culley, of Los Angeles, from the path leading to the round of eight. Young Culley finally became leg weary and the Texan staggered in with a 3-6, 8-10, 8-6, 8-6, 7-5 decision.

Eugene McCauliff, the seasoned New Yorker seeded fourth, was another to drop the first two sets, but defeated Ray Palmer, of New York, 2-6, 5-7, 6-0, 6-1, 6-1.

Wilbur Coen, of Kansas City, participating in his first 1932 Eastern tournament, also was forced to go five sets against Joe Coughlin, another of the Californian delegation, before advancing on a 6-4, 3-6, 7-9, 6-0, 6-3 victory.

CLIVELLE VICTOR

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 13.—(A.P.)—Angel Clivelle, Puerto Rican middleweight, won on a foul from Sammy Slaughter, Terre Haute Negro, in the second round of a scheduled 10-round boxing contest last night.

PIRATE STAR'S LEG INJURY SERIOUS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Pirate medicos who examined him today indicated that Outfield Lloyd Waner would be lost to the Buccos for a week or 10 days as a result of his accident of yesterday. The little marvel limped painfully this morning with the torn tendon in his right leg. Lloyd was hurt in the first inning of the clash with the Dodgers when he tumbled in scoring from second on a wide throw to first.

Adam Comorosky will continue in center field as long as Lloyd is on the rack. Commy started the contest of yesterday in left, but he moved to the bigger range after his little pal went down.

The Buccos paid a rather big premium for their 12-inning victory over the Dodgers in the finale. The score was 8 to 7. P. Waner suffered a lacerated finger on the throwing hand, which took him out of the game in the fifth round, and in the same inning Comorosky and Tony Piet staged one of the worst-looking collisions any fan has seen in the Oakland Orchard. The two Polish boys were jarred badly, and Piet was cut about the face, but both were able to stay on the job.

MISHAP HELPS DODGERS

The jam play occured as the two fliers raced for Joe Stripp's short fly. Piet had the ball in his grasp, but the terrific impact made him drop it. The "break" saw the Dodgers ride to a deadlock in the inning and later they jumped to the front with a two-run lead.

Tommy Thevenow, subbing for Pie Traynor, saved the game for Pittsburgh in the eighth when, with his team one run behind, two out and two on, he tripled to put the Pirates out in front. It looked like a regulation victory as the ninth opened, but Johnny Frederick, batting for Pitcher Bill Clark, changed the picture with a homer into the rightfield stands.

GUS DUGAS HERO

Grove City Signs Bill Amos as Coach

GROVE CITY, Pa., July 13.—William E. (Bill) Amos, former star athlete of Washington and Jefferson College, today signed a one-year contract as head coach of football at Grove City College. Amos was selected from a long list of applicants to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Charley Berry, at a recent meeting of the Grove City athletic council. The contract is on the all-year basis.

Amos has been head coach of football and tutor of other sports at W. & J. for the last three years. Last March he was critically injured in an automobile crash near Pittsburgh. For a time he was on the verge of death, but made a game and successful fight for life. He has completely recovered, and his election as football coach at Grove City will be learned with delight by many admirers in the tri-state district.

TRIBE THREATENS LEADERS IN AMERICAN

INDIANS GAIN BY VICTORIES IN EAST

Associated Press.

The Cleveland Indians, tearing through the East with a speed and spirit that stamps them a vastly improved club in the last month, promise to instill some life in an American League race that had about died on its feet.

Featuring a boisterous batting attack, the Indians have captured nine of their last 12 games, including four out of five from Washington and three out of four from the Athletics, and within a week have fought their way up from the second division into a tie for third place.

GAIN ON YANKEES

Their spurt has enabled the Indians to pick up better than two games on the Yankees, and they will have a good opportunity to make further inroads when they open a series at Yankee Stadium tomorrow.

The Indians gave one of their most impressive performances of the year yesterday in hammering the great Lefty Grove for 18 hits and a 7-to-6 victory.

The combination of Charles Ruffing's gilt-edged pitching and Ben Chapman's home run with one aboard gave the Yanks a 4-to-2 decision over St. Louis.

It took Washington 10 innings to subdue the White Sox, 13 to 12, and then they needed a wild throw by Luke Appling to give them the deciding run. Appling made three of eight bobbles charged to the Sox.

RED SOX WIN

The Boston Red Sox, who have roused themselves to win six games in the last fortnight, whereas they had required two and a half months to capture their first 12, nosed out Detroit, 3 to 2, behind Bob Kline.

Successive drives by Dave Barbee and Gus Dugas, gave the Pittsburgh Pirates an 8-to-7 verdict over Brooklyn in 12 innings.

George Watkins gave the Cardinals their third straight over the Phillies by a score of 7 to 6 when he knocked one from the premises after two were out and one on in the ninth inning.

Thanks to an error by Joe Morrissey in the last inning, the Giants broke a four-game losing streak with a 4 to 3 win over the Cincinnati Reds.

LEHENY SIGNED BY DORMONT

Abe Martin, southpaw pitcher, has been released by Dormont and Regis Leheny has been signed to take his place. Leheny, another portsider, is the property of the Boston Braves, and is subject to immediate recall by that club. Martin's release was attributed to his failure to strike a winning stride.

South Hills baseball fans are promised another hectic battle this evening when Art Rooney takes his North Siders to the Dormont High School field to meet the defending champions of a City League tussle.

Dormont, riding the wave in the second half race, will not take so lightly the battling Salt Works aggregation, for once during the first half chase, Rooney and his crowd came from behind to win a close decision.

Both the Books and Dormont took lacings last evening, the champions bowing to the Geislers, 4 to 2, and Homewood nosing out the first half victors, 13 to 12 Reliance Life defeated the North Siders, 18 to 7, and J. L. Thomas won over Ferris, 5 to 2.

The Carrick Eagles gave the Homestead Aces a sound whipping in the West Penn League, winning 6 to 1, while the Martins took over Turtle Creek, 4 to 2.

NUNAMAKER BOOKED

Baseball's Humorist
Says:

WASHINGTON, July 13.—My fellow countrymen, I point with pride to my enduring record as an intrepid advocate and purveyor of just and accurate statistics. (Applause.) And I now asseverate, dear citizens, without fear of successful contradiction, that the Fourth of July idea is a lot of boloney (Hisses.) Let me explain. (Time out for drink of water.) The idea that the team that leads the league on Independence Day wins the pennant is more than a lot of boloney—it's a carload of cheese. Because, fellow citizens, we look back on the indelible pages of history and see that on July 4, 1914, the Boston Braves were in last place. And, in October of the same year, the Braves had not only won the pennant, but had flattened the American League champions in four games flat. I thank you from the bottom of my shoelaces.

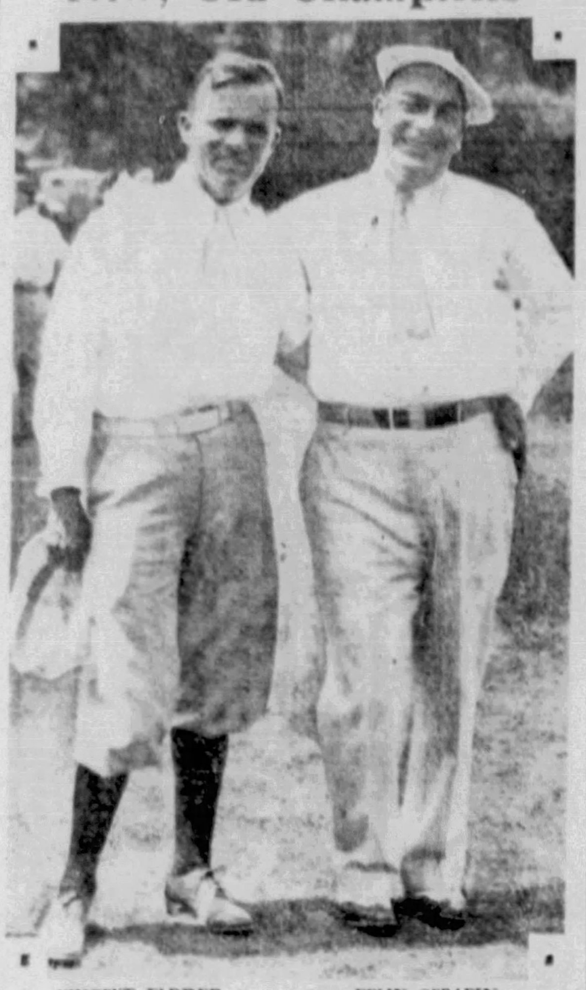
New, Old Champions



VINCENT ELDRED — FELIX SERAFIN

Eldred, Highland Country Club professional, yesterday won the State Open golf championship with a score of 306 for the 72 holes of play at the Oakmont Country Club. Serafin, hailing from Scranton, and the defending champion, held Eldred even for 36 holes, but finished in sixth place. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

ELDRED STATE OPEN CHAMP

Vincent Eldred, Highland Country Club professional, is the new State Open golf champion. He won the laurels when he finished the 72 holes of play over the Oakmont Country Club course yesterday in 306 strokes, three less than Emil Loeffler, Oakmont, twice former champion, who was second.

Felix Serafin, of Scranton, defending the title, cracked on the last 36 holes to finish among the also-rans at 317, after having tied Eldred for the lead at 152 for the first half of the route.

Tied for third place were Ed Dudley, of Wilmington, Del., and Perry Del Vecchio, the Greensburg shotmaker, each having 311. Another tie existed for fifth place, Pete O'Hara the popular Westmoreland wizard, and J. Wood Platt, the veteran Philadelphia amateur, each having a 315.

Joe Ludes, of Oakmont, Emil's consistent assistant, with 318, and Sam Parks, Jr., of the Summit Club at Uniontown, with 319, and Ted Luther, the Valley Heights luminary, with 320, also shared in the awards.

It has been six years since Johnny Rodgers, the Shannopin Siege Gun, finished in front in the State Open, and he was the last Pittsburgher to turn the trick until Eldred won yesterday.

J. Woody Platt took the medal for the amateurs. A gallery estimated at 3,000 watched the final day of play.

PAUL WANER

LLOYD WANER

As one Waner goes, so goes the other one. The brothers' Poison Act is well known to baseball fans. Here are both of them on the sidelines looking on as their Pirate mates puHed out an extra-inning battle with the Dodgers at Forbes Field yesterday. P. Waner suffered an injured finger and Lloyd hurt a leg. Both had to leave the game. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

BAXTER BOXES DORFMAN IN HILL ARENA

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Sammy Dorfman vs. Charley Baxter, Mose Butch vs. Charley Van Reeden and Tiger Joe Randall vs. Davy Grove, 10 rounds each, and Mickey O'Brien vs. Petey Sherman, 6 rounds, Greenlee Field.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Gradually the pall that has hung over the local boxing situation, following a series of financial losses by the promoters, rises and a new era begins tonight, when the Greenlee Field arena swings back into action after a layoff of a week. Meanwhile, the Meyers Bowl in North Braddock, idle for several weeks, has arranged a card for next Monday night, and the Hickey Park arena in Millvale, which drew one of its largest crowds with reduced prices last Monday night, is working on another show for Thursday night of next week.

Charley Baxter, local lightweight, who always gives everything he has and is a dangerous right-hand puncher, goes to the post in the main event of 10 rounds tonight against Sammy Dorfman, of New York, well known to the local fans. Davy Grove, North Side welterweight, meets Tiger Joe Randall, Elizabeth Negro, and Mose Butch, Oakland southpaw bantamweight, takes on Charley Van Reeden, of Florida, in two more 10-rounders. Mickey O'Brien, of Braddock, and Patsy Sherman, of the East End, are in the opener, scheduled for 8:45 o'clock.

PRICES REDUCED

The prices also are cut for this show, 6,000 seats being available at 55 cents and the others at $1 and $2.

Battling Gizzy, of Donora, making his first start since his bout with Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion, in the same ring, at the start of the outdoor season, meets Lew Feldman, of New York, in the main bout at the Bowl next Monday. Marty Gornick, of Whitaker, boxes Johnny Hayes, of Philadelphia, in another 10-rounder. Jimmy Thomas, local Negro bantamweight, will go against an opponent to be selected for eight rounds, and Dominick Mancini meets Johnny Durso in the six-round opener.

Between Rounds

Davy Grove will be given a bout with Ted Yarosz if he succeeds in defeating Tiger Randall tonight. Hickey Park is angling for this bout.

Frank Klaus, former middleweight champion, has his heavyweight, Jack Gross, ready to do battle against any of the big fellows, following a layoff for a bad hand. He also would like to send Jimmy Belmont against Ted Yarosz again and has Angelo Vergione set for any of the 135-pounders. Vergione has boxed Battling Gizzy, Eddie Brannon, Frankie Bolarski, Jimmy Dean, T. S. Carpentier, Patsy Gallagher, Frankie Porto, Mickie Scholes, Jack DeNeri and other good ones.

Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City heavyweight, has left for Los Angeles following his recent marriage, and plans to reenter the boxing game on the coast, where he will make his home.

Natie Brown and Billy Jones are expected to put up a torrid battle when they meet in the windup at Greenlee Field Wednesday night of next week. Their draw at Hickey Park, Millvale, last summer, still is remembered by the fans, as well as Jones' easy victory over George Pavlick at the Kapphan Arena and Brown's win over Tony Galento at Motor Square Garden after Galento had knocked out George Panka with a single punch there.

Sunny Jim McVey, local Negro light-heavyweight, will box Sammy Weiss, of Allentown, Pa., in the eight-round semi-final on the Jones-Brown card.

Fans Unimpressed By Ring Innovation

CHICAGO, July 13.—(AP.)—The customers displayed little enthusiasm over the Illinois State Athletic Commission's score by rounds innovation last night as Mickey Patrick, Chicago middleweight, held Henry Firpo, of Louisville, Ky., to a draw in the four-round final bout of the West Side Boxing Club's show.

U. S. TO FACE STERN BATTLE IN OLYMPICS

By LAWSON ROBERTSON
Head Coach, American Olympic Team
(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 13.—Very gladdening news continues to come here from Los Angeles. Our earlier fears that the foreign nations would cut their teams to shreds are being dissipated.

It appears that practically all of them will have the originally planned representatives in the contests on the Olympic program and that their track and field teams will be quite sizeable.

U. S. TEAM POWERFUL

Although we will send into action perhaps the greatest team ever assembled under the U. S. standard, we are no certainties to monopolize the championships. The foreigners have developed some bright stars through the last four years and some of them are certain to surprise—and shock—those of us who are inclined to underestimate their brilliance.

While I am quite certain that the U. S. A. will maintain its supremacy in the tenth Olympiad I am equally positive that our reign will end there. European nations, especially Germany, have been building gradually, under an elaborate program, and by 1936, they will have many track and field men superior, or at least on a parity, with our own.

FOREIGNERS BUILDING

We always have dominated in these games because we have specialized through the years in this form of athletics. Other countries with the exception of England made no concerted effort up to 1924 toward development of men at these sports. And the only competition they offered came from some few young who were natural runners or field men.

The change came after 1924. The foreigners reached realization that track and field athletics were wonderful aids in the physical development of its youth. Immediately they reached out and hired trainers and coaches and since then have been building—and building.

South Hills Nine Wins Legion Game

The South Hills American Legion nine defeated the East Liberty team, 11 to 5, on the latter's diamond last evening in an American Legion junior championship game.

In the other league fracas, Swissvale and Curtisville played to a 4-to-4 tie. The game was called because of darkness after nine innings.

JOHN W. CARR

A John W. Carr Golf Day will be held at the Pittsburgh Field Club next Saturday to honor the retiring congenial secretary-treasurer of the club, who has resigned and will return to his native state, New York, to spend his remaining days. "Uncle John" Carr is one of the real veterans of the local golfing fraternity and enjoys wide popularity among the players. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

NET TOURNEY NEAR FINALS

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Quarter-final competition features this afternoon's card as the first annual Fox Chapel Golf Club invitation doubles net tourney swings into its fouth day of hostilities. Two of the four bracket-of-eight contests, plus the line remaining second round affair, comprise the bill, the remaining brace of tilts for right to enter the penultimate frame being slated for the morrow.

At 5:30 o'clock the former Western Pennsylvania champions, Dr. Billy McEllroy and Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, of the P. A. A., engage Dave Gilmore, brilliant Allegheny Country Club portsider, and Frank White, crack University Club veteran. At the same hour, another Winged Head pair, Dr. John O'Loughlin and brother Billy O'Loughlin, battle the Allegheny-Pittsburgh Golf Club coalition of Sam Harbison and Charley Lockhart. Henry O'Neill and Scott Burke, Fox Chapel duo, complete the slate by encountering the Pittsburgh Golf Club outfit, Collie Burgwin and Joe Holmes, Jr.

The able and cagy home team of Tom Robinson and Joe Dilworth lived up to the dope by furnishing yesterday's fireworks at expense of the accomplished Edgewooders, Frank Smith and Leonard Reed. Lobbing consistently and crowding the barrier when opportunity offered, the Fox Chapelites won 6-8, 6-3, 6-2.

McEllroy and Dave O'Loughlin unslung too many guns for H. H. McClintic and Stanley Brown, Fox Chapel combine, and garnered a 6-1, 6-3 verdict. In the other fracas, Paul Hicks and McCook Reed, Edgewood aces and 1930 West Penn premiers, accounted for Hub Rinehart, rangy Stantonian, and George Lockhart, of the Pittsburgh Golf Club, 6-3, 6-3.

Peterson Captures British Ring Title

LONDON, July 13.—(AP.)—(AP.)—Jack Peterson won the British heavyweight championship last night by knocking out Reggie Meen in the second round of a scheduled 15-round bout.

The British Boxing Association recognizes Larry Gains, Toronto Negro, as heavyweight champion of the British empire but not of Great Britain. Gains won a decision over Meen some months ago.

Five regular events and a special exhibition by Guy June compose the weekly meeting of the Schenley Matinee Club at Schenley Oval this afternoon. Guy June will attempt to lower his own record for the season for the mile trot.

SWIM TRIALS OPEN TODAY

CINCINNATI, July 13.—(AP.)—America's greatest array of swimming talent today will open a battle for the right to carry the Stars and Stripes against the cream of the world in the Olympiad.

Twenty-four will be selected for Uncle Sam's men's team. There are more than 90 aspirants for the berths, ranging in age from 14 to 42.

Only preliminary heats will be run today in the Coney Island pool. They are for the 1500-meter and 100-meter free style events.

Swetonic to Umpire Game for Slovaks

An extensive athletic program is being carried out today by the Western Pennsylvania Slovak Federation at Kennywood Park. The feature will be the appearance of Steve Swetonic, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, and William Urbanski, of the Boston Braves, who will umpire a baseball game at 6 p. m. between the Catholic Sokols and the Western Pennsylvania Jednota All-Stars. The program also includes mushball games and track and field events.

STOCK TRADING QUICKENS ON ADVANCE

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP.)—The stock market showed signs of working out of its narrow trading range of the past fortnight on the upside today.

The list was hesitant in the early dealings, but managed to make headway in the middle of the day, with trading quickening a little on the advance. Continued firmness of bonds, and a better tone in the principal commodities, tended to help the movement in shares.

Some of the sugar and packing shares continued to forge ahead, but utilities came forward to prove leadership. Buying started in the American and Foreign Power preferred shares, which got up a point or more, and soon gains of 1 to 2 appeared in such issues as Public Service of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas, Peoples Gas, Pacific Lighting, American Telephone, American Tobacco B, United States Steel preferred, Corn Products, American Can, Continental Can, Case, Union Pacific, Woolworth, Santa Fe, Safeway, Kroger, McKeesport, Procter and Gamble, National Biscuit and others. Some of the thinly traded preferred stocks made wider gains. In the early sag, Auburn dropped more than 4, but recovered later.

The upturn appeared to reflect a lifting of selling pressure, as much as anything, although some observers have been insisting of late that signs of good accumulation have appeared in spots. Furthermore, there was an inclination on the part of some professionals to take to the long side of the market, in anticipation of an early adjournment of Congress, in view of the apparent determination of the legislators to expedite a relief measure acceptable to the President.

Adverse earnings and dividend news seemed to have been well discounted in advance. Continental Can managed to go ahead, despite cutting of the quarterly payment to 50 cents from 62½, and Procter & Gamble was not adversely affected by reduction of its quarterly disbursement to 50 cents from 60. The early slump in Auburn was in response to its second quarter statement showing a deficit of $151,987. The stock went under 50, after touching 60 earlier this week, but traders felt that a reaction had probably been inevitable, after an advance as rapid as its recent upswing. Woolworth directors ordered the regular dividend of 60 cents.

Second quarter earnings statements will shortly be appearing in some volume, and Wall street is now wondering how the market will take some of these reports, which are bound to provide some unpleasant reading. Optimists are inclined to the opinion that the extremely low level of corporate earnings has been well discounted, although there are many skeptics, who wonder how the market can make much progress against such news, particularly in view of the fact that a number of third quarter statements, reflecting the summer lull, are likely to be worse than those for the second quarter.

Among the midweek statistics, the electric power consumption report, showing a drop of 12.8 per cent for the two weeks ended July 9, from the like period of last year, attracted attention. This was somewhat worse than the comparison made by the few weeks previous, but failed to prevent the upturn in the utility shares.

WHEAT PRICES TURN UP

CHICAGO, July 13.—(AP.)—Influenced by a rise in wheat quotations at Liverpool, ascribed to speculators taking profit, grain prices here tended upward today. Suggestions of hot weather in domestic spring wheat territory northwest were also construed as bullish. Opening at ½c decline to ¼c advance, Chicago wheat futures showed all around gains later. Corn started ¼ to ½c up and subsequently held near the initial range. Corn and oats were responsive to wheat price upturns. Provisions reflected setbacks in hog values.

Forbes

This Group of Stocks Double Market Value.

By B. C. FORBES

ONE GROUP of stocks have advanced 100 per cent from their recent low levels.

That news will startle many, because it has gone unnoticed.

Mr. Forbes

It constitutes an emphatic answer to pessimists who are sure that nothing will ever improve.

Seeing that one class of stocks have doubled in value, what guarantee is there that other classes will not rebound similarly?

This little table shows the transformation wrought in quotations for leading packers' shares in recent weeks:

	Low.	This wk.	% Inc.
Armour of Del. pfd.	24	44	83

Have agricultural prices at last reached bottom and are due for recovery?

City-folks ignorant of the real caliber of many of our rural population, sneeringly refer to them as "hayseeds." The truth is, of course, that most of the men and women who wring a living from the soil have developed an ingenuity, a resourcefulness, a many-sidedness not possessed by those born and bred amid the cut-and-dried conveniences of city life.

Consider the timely, sensible, constructive action just taken by one community of (Mitchellville) Iowa farmers. They got together and, after recording the common-sense conclusion that "employment will increase only when people buy more," they passed this resolution:

"We will buy the things we want and can afford for our own personal, home or farm use. Right now, each of us needs from $1,000 to $5,000 worth of farm equipment. We will buy this equipment and other things just as rapidly as we are able."

They subscribed to the statement that:

"Hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions, of people want automobiles, home furnishings, clothing, furniture, business equipment, etc., and have the cash with which to buy, but they are not buying because they have the idea that they are doing the popular thing when they use worn-out articles instead of buying new ones. Or they fear they will be criticised by neighbors, relatives, employes or employers, or they fear losing their jobs or having their income reduced."

These farmers, therefore, resolved to do their part in correcting conditions by starting immediately to buy things they need and can pay for.

If everybody in the United States in a position to do so would follow this horse sense policy of the "hayseeds," the effect could not fail to be most impressive.

THE UNIVERSAL Atlas Cement Company is sending out a booklet, "Reasons why the depression will last indefinitely." When you turn the pages, you find everyone is blank.

One of America's foremost oil leaders writes this column:

"The oil industry out here in California is really doing a very constructive piece of work. There is a better feeling, with restored confidence within the industry. The producer today is able to make a little money—not much, but he can throw away his red ink bottle. I am more optimistic on the Pacific Coast oil situation than I have been in a long while."

THE GOLD standard has just been voted the best by representatives of the world's most important countries. We here knew it all the time!

Coast Line's Value Set at $167,566,407

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(INS.)—Complete valuation of the Atlantic Coast Line and its subsidiaries was fixed at $167,566,407, as of June 30, 1917, according to a report of the Interstate Commerce Commission made public here today. The evaluation is for all properties "used and owned" by the A. C. L. and its subsidiaries.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Auburn Automobile Company and subsidiaries for quarter ended May 3 reports net loss of $151,987 after all charges, including depreciation. This compares with net profit of $2,158,765, or $10.24 a share on 210,602 shares common stock outstanding in the like period a year ago. Consolidated net loss for the first six months ended May 31 last amounted to $144,028 after above charges, against net profit of $2,361,175, equal to $11.21 a common share, in the like 1931 period. Consolidated balance sheet as of May 31, 1932, shows current assets of $12,517,912, of which cash and government securities totaled $4,248,825 and current liabilities of $785,722, a ratio of 15.9 to one.

Western Union Telegraph Company reports for six months ended June 30 net income of $16,94-, after interest, depreciation, rent of leased lines and all other charges compared with $4,382,765 in the first six months of 1931. For the first quarter of this year the company reported last income of $83,428, which was apparently reduced by a small loss during the second quarter, making the net for the first half only $16,942.

Kroger Grocery and Baking Company reports sales for the first six months of 1932 were $102,994,552 as against $119,736,486 in the corresponding period of 1931. Earnings the announcement said were $1,385,043, equivalent after payment of preferred dividends to 74 cents a share on common stock as against $1.25 in the first six months of 1931.

HOOVER RELIEF RIFT PUZZLE TO JOBLESS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, July 13.—The rift between the President and Congress as to technique for relief must seem highly technical and academic to the 10,000,000 persons who are unable to satisfy their need for employment.

The mere necessity for emergency relief is an indication of social unpreparedness. When we are fully civilized in an economic sense, advance planning and methods for stabilization will effect social controls over vacillating economic situations, and social insurance will make the incidence of the most of depression fall more equitably on different groups in the community.

Mr. Rukeyser

Under the present political leadership, economic relief measures have been poorly timed. They have been launched after crises have developed, instead of before. With better management in the large, there would be more foresight and greater emphasis on preventive medicine in finance.

It becomes increasingly apparent that restoration of business prosperity will become the outstanding issue of the forthcoming campaign. Gov. Roosevelt will stress the idea that there is no one economic panacea, but that the real issue is competence. He will emphasize the need of taking many remedial steps simultaneously, instead of continuing to drift, letting one public move be vitiated by a contradictory step in another direction.

The harshness of present day taxes is making businessmen more politically conscious than ever before, and there may be in the next decade an advent of the retired businessman into public life.

Another expression of this tendency is the project launched by Richard Washburn Childs and associates to promote prosperity through better international trade relations. The objective is to have a conference by hard boiled business executives, instead of college "idealists" and visionaries.

COTTON PRICES STEADY, UP

NEW YORK, July 13.—Cotton futures opened steady, 4-7 lower on continued favorable weather in the south and under local liquidation and foreign selling.

Offerings were comparatively light following the reaction of over half a cent from the high prices of last week and there was enough trade buying or covering to steady prices during the early trading. October sold up from $5.50 to $5.66, or within a point of yesterday's close, and the general market was quiet and steady within a point or two of Tuesday's final prices at the end of the first half hour. There appeared to be some uncertainty as to the weekly weather report which led to scattered covering. Houses with Liverpool and continental connections were early sellers here; there was also some selling through brokers with Japanese connections.

Offerings continued light and although buying was inactive there was sufficient covering or trade demand to send prices up to 5.77 for October and 5.94 for January or about 5 to 10 points net higher. The market at midday was steady within 2 or 3 points of these figures.

LIVERPOOL, July 13.—Cotton, 1,000 bales including 300 American. Spot in better demand; improved business; prices 14 points lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 5.09; good middling, 4.84; strict middling, 4.72; middling, 4.62; strict low middling 4.54; low middling, 4.44; strict good ordinary, 4.24; good ordinary, 3.94. Futures closed steady, July, 4.36; October, 4.33; December, 4.36; January, 4.38; March, 4.43; May, 4.48.

Steel Statements Will Show Losses at New Levels.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

STATEMENTS of steel companies to be made public at the close of the present month will show losses for the second quarter exceeding those of the first quarter in nearly all cases. National Steel will be the one exception. This organization, beside being the only major producer of steel to come through the quarter with a profit, is expected to show its quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock earned.

The slump in production during June definitely wiped out any savings secured from wage and salary cuts and other economies. Output was at about 15 per cent of capacity at the close of that month. It slumped to even lower levels last week when production was little above 10 per cent of capacity. This cast a further shadow on the prospects for the third quarter since coming months would have to show an exceptional revival to overcome the poor start demonstrated in June.

* * *

Action on Preferred Dividend Uncertain

THE VIRTUAL certainty that the steel industry will show poorer results for the second quarter than it did for the first naturally raises a question on the action to be taken by directors of the United States Steel Corporation on that organization's preferred dividend. No official intimation of the stand to be taken by directors has been made available to the public.

The exceptionally depressed condition of the industry at present would make the curtailment or omission of this dividend a distinct possibility. Against this, however, the preferred stock of the United States Steel Corporation has been regarded as a primary investment for many years. The omission or reduction of this dividend naturally will be discussed by directors from the standpoint of its psychological effect. The prospect for coming months will also be a factor to be taken into consideration. In view of these diverse influences it is impossible to predict the action to be taken by Steel's directors, but a reduction or omission is a possibility.

Recovery Expected During Coming Weeks

THE EXCEPTIONALLY low output of the present time was partially attributable to the holiday shutdowns, which, as matters of economy, have been extended for several weeks in some cases. The rolling mill operations have not been quite as low as ingot production, since some plants have accumulated stocks of semi-finished materials, which they are now using. In the latter part of July ingot production may be expected to show a gradual recovery. After this, August may represent another period of uncertainty, to be followed by seasonal gains in September. The extent of these gains will be of extreme importance as indications of whether or not business is to assume a definite upward trend during the latter part of the year.

SOVIET GRAIN AREA LESS

MOSCOW, July 13.—(INS.)—Final Soviet grain sowing figures are 94.5 per cent of the anticipated amount, it was revealed today.

A total of 97,000,000 hectares have been sown, against the 108,000,000 hectares originally planned. The figure is about the same as 1931.

Conditions in the Ukraine were primarily responsible for the failure to meet the original estimates, and Western Siberia and Kazakstan are also behind. These are among the most important Soviet grain districts.

Technical cultures increased over 1931, but grain sowing generally showed a downward trend. The figures given out by officially Soviet agencies gave no indication of the relative density of sowing.

Meanwhile, news from the Ukraine indicated hay-cutting was hopelessly behind schedule, promising scanty fodder and, as a result, less meat.

Power Production Lower Last Week

NEW YORK, July 13.—(AP.)—Electric power production in the United States during the week ended July 9, which included Independence Day, totaled 1,341,730,000 kilowatt hours, against 1,456,961,000 in the previous week.

Because the holiday came in the preceding week last year the National Electric Light Association made comparisons with 1931 on the basis of the past fortnight, announcing that the decline for that period from 1931 was 12.8 per cent.

Sectional decreases were as follows: Atlantic seaboard, 9.4 per cent; general industrial region, 14.8 per cent; Pacific coast, 13.9 per cent.

Sarah Pleads With Former Sweetheart to Let Lynn Alone

CHAPTER XXX.

Dwight leaned against the window frame. Sparring for time, he said a thing which was small and mean; which he regretted.

He asked lightly, "Not jealous, are you, Sarah?"

She flushed, without beauty. She answered, her eyes on his, "No, I'm not jealous, David. I'm afraid."

But she was jealous. She knew it; and she knew she must scotch the little snake at her heart.

While he murmured, "Shut the door. Come in. You can't stand there. What will people say?" and laughed a little, remembering, perhaps, as she forlornly remembered, a time when what people said—or thought—had meant so little to her, to both of them. She tried to think of what am I jealous? Not of his love, or of his desire for another woman. Not jealous of Lynn. Oh, not that! Jealous, it might be, of all Lynn stood for: youth, grace, laughter, life.

Jealous, too, of David's personal integrity, of the delicate balance of that unacknowledged relationship which was between them. So she said, shutting the door and coming into the room:

"David, you've got to be honest with me. You've always been honest with me before. You can't do this to—Lynn. You can't do it to me."

INVITED TO SIT DOWN

He had not made a name for himself by being insensitive and blind. He couldn't turn this off lightly, with a word of reassurance. "Sarah, don't be silly. There's nothing in it. Can't I be attentive to a pretty girl," plaintively, "without your getting all worked up over it? Run along to bed, do, there's a darling." No, he couldn't say that. Instead, he said:

"Sit down. We'll talk this thing out."

She sat down, docilely enough. He took a chair near her. He was tired, he discovered suddenly. Yet a moment before he had been so far from tired.

It struck him as enormously comic, as tremendously tragic, that he and Sarah Dennet should be sitting thus, alone, at this time of night. Once, a thousand years ago, it had been heaven to be with her thus, alone. Why not now?

Fleetingly he thought that the question contained most of the love tragedy in the universe.

He turned his attention to Sarah. She was sitting wearily in the deep chair, relaxed, in a strangely humble position, somehow, for one usually so sure of herself. There isn't much use lying—to her, he thought; she always knew when I lied. If I could put her in the wrong, get at this from an angle disadvantageous to her!

It was not unkindness or even self-protection. He was merely not a lawyer for nothing, as his clients very well knew.

"Sarah"—his voice was a shade reproachful—"aren't you taking an unfair advantage of me?"

She knew what he meant, shrank back against the chair. They hadn't, for years, spoken of the days gone by. They had agreed to that. No use stirring embers; and when embers have become ashes, even more futile to blow upon them and watch the gray wisps drift upon uncaring air.

He had liked that about her. She was the only woman he had ever known who did not say, long after love had perished, "Do you remember . . ."

She answered, as steadily as she could, "I didn't mean to, you know that. Lynn—Lynn means a great deal to me. Oh, why can't you let her alone, David? Why can't you let her alone? She's so young."

"And I'm so old?" he murmured wryly.

"No; I didn't mean that." She didn't. Old? Dwight? Not by any standards.

SARAH BECOMES BITTER

"Lynn? Lynn?" His voice was tender; he couldn't, for his life, prevent it. "How old is she—twenty-two? Twenty-two-year-old girls nowadays, dear Sarah——!"

"Oh, why do you twist the things I say? I don't mean she's ignorant of pitfalls. Lynn's modern enough, sane enough, for that matter. But she doesn't know what life can do to—to a girl. David, she's happy; she's in love. Tom Shepard's a decent boy. They'll quarrel and be reconciled a hundred times before they marry. Can't you let her alone, leave her to him? She belongs to him."

"Does she?" His eyes were unpleasant. "If she does, then why worry? She won't be hurt. No one will be hurt except, perhaps, myself."

A clear-enough acknowledgement. Sarah felt that she did not want him to be hurt; she couldn't endure it; she would sacrifice anything—herself, Tom, Lynn, even Lynn.

But that was madness. With the balanced cells of her brain she knew that David Dwight would not be hurt, not really; or thought she knew it.

She said: "You do love her, then? But you won't be hurt, David. You—you've cared for women before."

"Yes. And had them, for the most part," he agreed cheerfully, brutally, "and lost them, somehow; and been hurt for a time. But——"

"Don't say it!"

It was on his lips to say, "But this is different." Sarah had heard that before. For a moment they stared at each other across miles, across years.

She said bitterly, "I've been a fool. I never thought, never dreamed——"

"Why not? You knew me, Sarah; you have known me for a long time," he reminded her.

"Yes; but Lynn! My friend, my"—she stumbled, said it bravely—"my almost daughter; the daughter I might have had."

"Sarah, do you realize you're talking like a bad play?"

A SICK TRIUMPH

"Oh, perhaps. Life is like a play—a very bad play, I expect. But to use me as a convenience!"

"Is that where the shoe pinches, Sarah?"

In part, it was. But she had herself in hand now.

She answered, "No, not altogether. I can't have you taking Lynn's happiness from her."

"Are you sure it's happiness?" His mouth twisted. He said violently, "What can that cub give her that I can't?"

"Life. Youth."

"Oh, youth!" He dismissed it with a gesture. "What does she want from life—a home, shelter, love, passion? I can give her these things as well as Tom Shepard. Better."

"He can give her marriage," Sarah said.

There was a sick triumph in her eyes. Marriage—David Dwight had not been able to give her marriage; at least, he had not wished to. And now, for a long time, his wife had served him as a protection . . .

In the scant minute which elapsed before Dwight answered, he realized a number of things. Marriage with Lynn! His breath quickened at the thought; his heart pounded. To teach Lynn to love; to show Lynn the wide reaches of this glorious world; to be guide and mentor and lover; to slip back into unthinking youth again through the elixir of her youth; to dream, perhaps, of a child, of children—not of the rangy, uninteresting girls who bore his name, but of boy children with Lynn's gray eyes . . .

That the present and only Mrs. David Dwight might be persuaded to release him he knew, had known it for a long time; but the idea had not appealed to him, had far from suited his book. But now!

There sat Sarah, the faint triumph still in her eyes. She thought she had him. She was wrong. He had her; he had, on the instant, everything that made life worth living. "He can give her marriage," Sarah had said. Well . . .

"That, too, might be arranged," said Dwight coolly.

She shuddered away from him. "No!"

"Yes, Mrs. Dwight is rather bored. Or so I've heard. She might be persuaded, for a consideration——"

Yes, he knew she could be persuaded. But the consideration must be very large. Far, far larger than he could afford. His thoughts turned back swiftly to his conversation with Lynn on the previous night. If there were anything in it—by all the unholy gods, what curiously poetic justice!

"Marriage," he went on, enjoying himself, loathing himself, a veritable battlefield—"marriage by bell and book, a home, children. Can your candidate do more?"

"No." But now, suddenly she thought she had conquered; she said, again in triumph, "She loves Tom. She doesn't love you."

"No," he said frankly, "she doesn't love me—yet."

"You think you can make her love you, all you stand for? David, it wouldn't be love; it would be glamour, enchantment; it would be betrayal of the most material sort."

He rose, smiling slightly. "Sarah, we are getting nowhere. We are, I take it, enemies?"

"Enemies," she agreed, low. She, too, rose. They regarded each other warily; they were duelists, dealing with clumsy weapons, weapons of the spirit, which, nevertheless, drew blood.

"An armistice?" he suggested, after a long minute. "As long as Tom Shepard is in the picture, I'll keep out. Does that satisfy you?"

She thought she had won. She thought that this was his way of telling her so. "Your word of honor, David?"

He was pale. He had his code. He asked, "Must I?" and then nodded, gravely. "My word of honor, then, as long as Tom is in the picture," he said.

She told him, "You keep promises—honor promises, I know."

He knew, too. For an instant their eyes met; for an instant that unspoken, vanished thing was living, flashing, between them. "Sarah, Sarita," he said, and sighed, "life plays us idiotic tricks. Try to think that it wasn't wholly my fault, my dear."

It had been years since he had called her Sarita, the silly, the sweet nickname. She was crying silently as she stumbled along the passage and up the stairs.

Dwight went back to his room. He had given his word to keep out as long as Tom was in the picture. But he had not promised to withhold his erasing hand. "I told him if he did this I'd never speak to him again." He smiled and went, catlike, into his bedroom.

"Sarah, will you do me the honor?" asked Dwight, and held open the door for her. Grimly she climbed in and sat beside him.

Synopsis

Lynn Harding, young and pretty clerk in the Sea Coast Bank and Trust Company, loves Tom Shepard, secretary to one of the bank's vice presidents. They cannot marry on Tom's salary, so Lynn plans to hold her position. She learns, however, that the bank does not want married women. She seeks the aid of David Dwight, prominent lawyer, whom she met through Sarah Dennet, her chief at the bank. Dwight had been Sarah's sweetheart years before, but gave her up to marry wealth. David, attracted by Lynn, offers her a position, but due to Tom's objection, Lynn rejects it. Later, Tom informs Lynn he has an opportunity to become rich by taking advantage of secret information relative to the bank's merger and buying stock. Lynn disapproves on the ground that it is dishonest and Tom reluctantly promises not to speculate. Shortly after, Tom is offered a position at a radio station. Anxious to tell Lynn, he asks if he might call only to learn that she is going away for the week-end with Sarah. Lynn neglects to mention that Dwight will be their host. She visits his place. Lynn, however, worried about Tom, is preoccupied. Dwight is very attentive to Lynn, and Sarah notices it.

Now Go On

"I've been a fool," Sarah said bitterly.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Hello, boys and girls! Kennywood Park is all ready to receive the members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club for their annual picnic tomorrow. The rides are waiting, the amusement devices are ready, and the weather man has promised to have the sun out bright and early so that everyone will have a good time.

Remember, the street cars that are to take you to Kennywood Park will leave promptly at 10 a. m. from the front of the theater where your Junior Komic Club meets each Saturday morning.

So when mother and dad tell you to go to bed early tonight don't ask to stay up just 15 minutes more, because you must get up early tomorrow so that you can get the work that you do around the house finished before you go to the picnic.

IMPORTANT MESSAGE

And, boys and girls, when you get on the street cars tomorrow the man in charge will have a very important announcement for you. So be sure to pay strict attention when he starts to talk.

The Enright Theater this Saturday will have a "pet" show for the members. Dogs, cats, birds, turtles, mice, rabbits, ponies, parrots and frogs are eligible to compete. In fact if you have a "pet" of any kind bring it to the Enright Theater Saturday and enter it in the Junior Comic Club show. You may win a prize.

All who attend the meeting with their "pets" will enter the theater through the stage door.

RECORD ATTENDANCE

The children were entertained by 11 acts from the Mann School of Dancing. Those taking part were: Jimmy Brown and Betty Jane Hickey, songs and dances; Phyllis Caputo, toe dance; Helen Druzisky, song; Marcia Mann, song and dance; Mary Lazar, tap dance; Dorothy Sharp and Lillian Prascatch in a song and dance; Mary Pass with acrobatic dance; Sophie Fuke, song; Marcia Mann and Edgar Hickey, song and dance.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Belmar—Anthony Donatelli, Mary Alice Kuhn, Charles Ragan, Hannah Owens, Flora Lamarca.

Enright—Martha Geidel, Helen Schmelz.

City Economy

Does Pittsburgh Really Want to Save Money Or to Play Political Favoritism?

Pittsburgh is in a hole. Its difficulties are financial and they are much like those of many other American cities. Tax payments have declined. Ordinary expenses have remained at their original levels and an added burden of unemployment relief has been placed upon council and the administration.

In the past it was a simple matter to balance Pittsburgh's budget. Taxes were increased and the problem was solved.

But city finances have become a real problem during the past year. First of all, many property owners have not been able to pay their taxes. Second, nearly all owners of real estate have found the incomes from their properties so drastically reduced that they would have extreme difficulty in paying increased taxes. Under current business conditions, it is doubtful if higher taxes would produce more revenue. A heavier burden on real estate might merely result in more defaults.

This situation is not going to last forever. But it is a matter of pressing importance at present and it may last for a few years more. Bond issues may be resorted to for extreme emergencies such as unemployment relief but they must be avoided as a means to meet current operations since they increase the interest burden and must mean ultimate increases in taxes.

Only one solution remains. Pittsburgh must cut its expenses down to a level which coincides with its income. Grand gestures have been made in this direction but evidence steadily is accumulating which shows that comparatively little real progress has been made. For years and years the expenses of city government have been mounting. But no one in recent years has made a concerted attempt to determine how many city jobs and city appropriations are excessive in proportion to needs and the service rendered.

In future editorials, a few of the many instances will be shown where the city can actually make large savings without serious inconvenience to its citizens.

The disclosures will raise the question: Does the city administration really want to save money or to take care of its political supporters?

County Blunders

West End Bridge and Allegheny River Boulevard Are Monuments to Stupidity.

County engineers have piled up a record of either exceptional carelessness or amazing stupidity. Most of the errors took place during a previous political regime. They have proved so costly, however, that it would be well worth while for the County Commissioners to conduct a thorough investigation into the department to find if the men responsible for the blunders are still in positions which will make it possible for them to waste more county funds.

The West End Bridge is the latest monument to county "efficiency." A beautiful bridge, representing a cost of about $1,600,000, has been completed and paid for since September of last year. The neglect of a rather important detail, an approach to the bridge, has made the structure useless up to the present time. Work was not started on the approach until the bridge was entirely completed. Several more months must pass before the complicated approach can be used.

The bridge blunder is not an isolated instance. The tie-up of the Allegheny River boulevard at the Nadine pumping station is only too well known. The bungling at the County Airport, which still does not fully meet all the requirements for the highest rating in spite of a large original appropriation and a large additional appropriation, is another example of county "efficiency."

These cases are so obvious that they can readily be seen by all. The magnitude of the stupidity shown by the planners immediately raises the question: How many less obvious blunders have been made on county work?

New Taxation

An Excise Tax on Products of Public Utilities Would Be Justifiable.

If the Legislature, seeking funds for unemployment relief and business rehabilitation, is unable to secure the necessary sums through enforced savings in government, and considers new taxation, it might well begin with an excise tax on the product of public utilities, such as gas and electric companies. And the tax must be laid on the utilities, instead of on the consumer.

The federal government, due to the failure of some Senators and Congressmen to represent the public, laid a 3 per cent tax on every consumer, 3 per cent of his monthly bill. This was done despite the fact that the Senate when it passed the tax bill placed the tax where it belonged, on the utilities. But House and Senate conferees reversed the Senate.

In a time of falling commodity prices utilities are in substance maintaining their rates. Such decreases as they offer are negligible, and are of no practical benefit to the average consumer. While other industries are passing or reducing dividends because of depressed earnings, electric light companies show enlarged profits.

A reasonable excise tax on each monthly bill, levied on the producer, would still leave the majority of electric light companies with dividends highly satisfactory for these days, approximately the 7 per cent permitted by the unwritten law of the Public Service Commission, a level which reports to the Legislature in the last regular session show is more often than not exceeded.

Our Marine Importance

Completion of Two Huge Dredges for Government Is Feather in Our Industrial Cap.

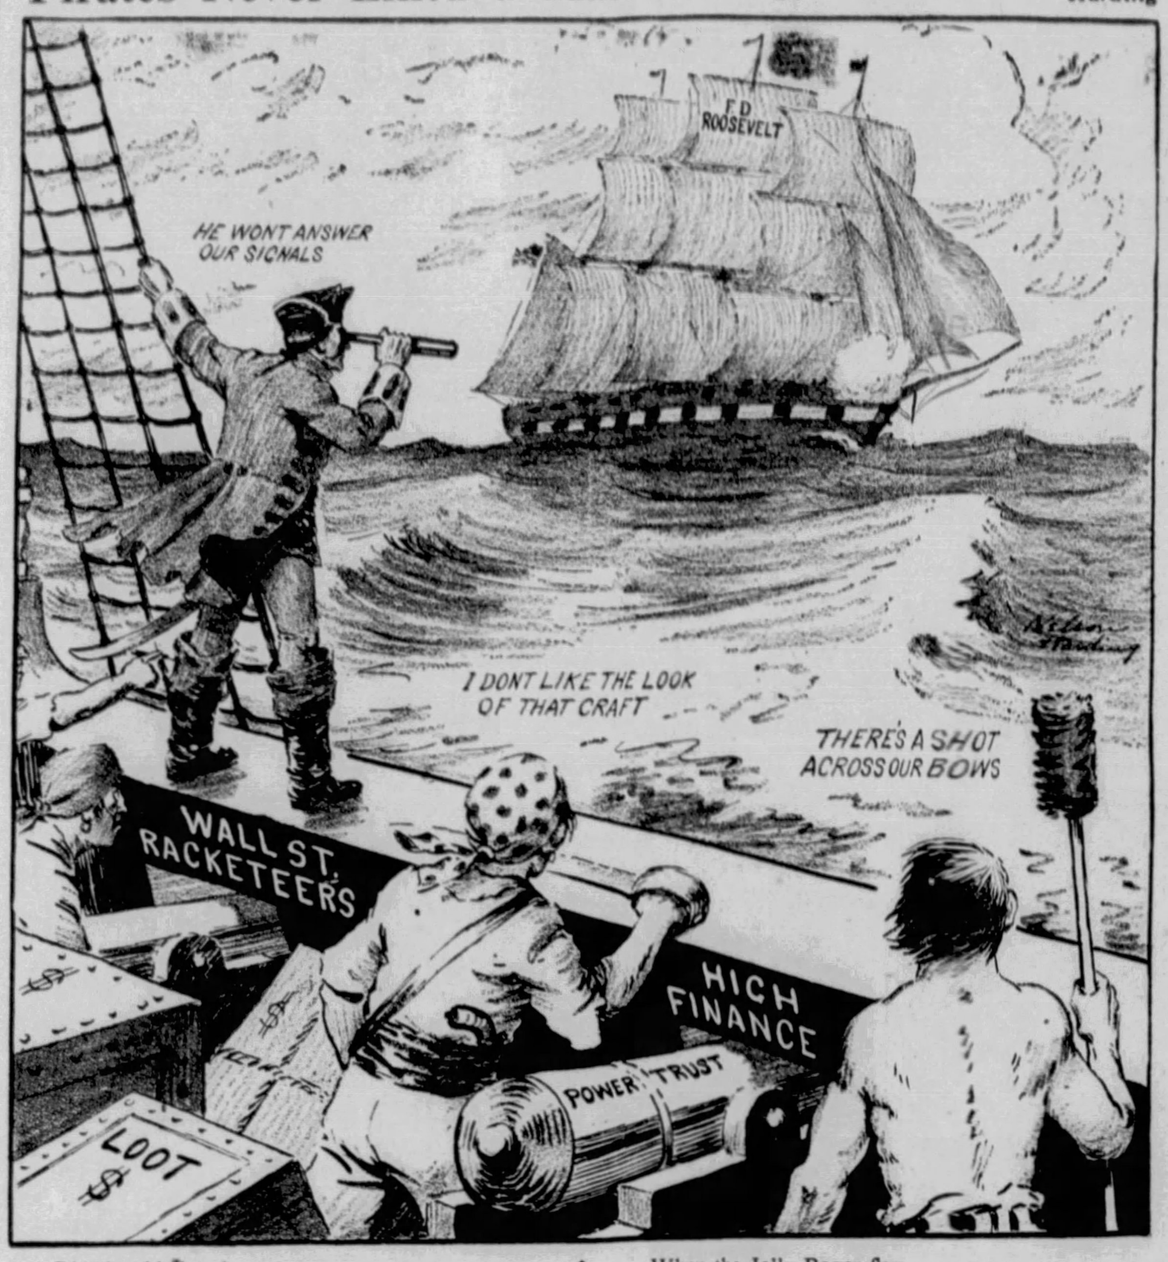
Importance of Pittsburgh as a center of marine construction is emphasized in the completion of two new United States government craft and sending them on their way to Memphis for service in the Mississippi. The vessels, U. S. Ockerson and U. S. Potter, are dredges of the "super" type, constructed at the Neville Island yards of the Dravo Construction Company, which also is building three more modern dredges for the government.

When we think of shipyards we vision great institutions, having oceanic outlets, that build ocean liners, and perhaps think that the river craft industry is rather small potatoes. How wrong that impression is is evident in the dimensions of the two completed dredges, which are 214 feet long and weigh 1,500 tons each, the cost of both running close to $1,000,000, or $452,000 apiece, to be exact.

Imposing in appearance as swankier vessels, their humbler mission should not deny them the classification of real "ships." Pittsburgh can well take pride in being in a position, by reason of its manifold industrial resources, to turn out such boats.

Pirates Never Liked a Man O' War -:-

By Nelson Harding



Did the old time buccaneers
Ever give three rousing cheers
At the sight of an approaching man o' war?
No, they knew that ship could shoot
And there wasn't any loot

When the Jolly Roger flew
O'er a buccaneering crew
Were they glad to see a cruising man o' war?
Unarmed merchantmen they met
With a welcome, but you bet
That a pirate never liked a man o' war!

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

This Married Life

Many a well-intentioned husband will bring home his wife an expensive present or a five-pound box of candy, when she is starving for just two cents' worth of "boloney."

* * *

Men may not be so mercenary as women—but lots of them marry for "moral support."

* * *

With marriage, as with an ankle, a sprain is much more painful than a break. Yet, the world is full of "separated" women these days, who are in a state of suspended divorce—neither wife, widow nor free-lance.

His wife's absence for the summer may drive a man to starvation or flirtation—but his stenographer's absence for two short weeks drives him to desperation!

* * *

Some men step out of their responsibilities as carelessly as they step out of their shoes—and just leave them around for a woman to pick up after them.

* * *

Divorce has become such a friendly, jolly little affair that it no longer means giving up your husband, forever, but is just a sort of intermission between honeymoons—until he gets tired of the other woman.

* * *

In the modern love-chase, many girls make the foolish mistake of trying to run a man down, when it would be so much easier and simpler just to trip him up.

This is the time of year when the heart feels the wanderlust; and many a woman wishes that she could take the bell off the family cat and tie it around her husband's neck.

* * *

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 13.—Broadway's newest drama is one of exciting change. A cafe philosopher suggests the title of the real life goings-on might be called "Money Extinguishing Itself." The reckless scattergoods who gave the Bright Lane its frenzy have nothing to scatter.

What little puffs of life there are float to one cafe one week and to another the next. No hot spot is doing even a fair business. Not in the swift eclipse of the past 10 years has there been such a marked shifting as in the past year. Like Wall street, it touches continued new lows.

Those leisurely theatrical strollers, who once made Broadway the most fascinating of the town's promenades, now scurry across it as though a bit ashamed. Corner groups of flashy gamblers and men about town are supplanted by grifters with eyes peeled for yokels.

Checker-suited worldlings, who give Broadway its aura of sportiveness, have moved over to the other side of the avenue. They are lodged in the de luxe speakeasies with elliptical bars and in the penthouses of the Gold Coast with their Monte Carlo gambling equipments.

With the exception of Lindy's, there is not a midnight rendezvous where the colorful crowd hangs out. In other days, there were at least 500 such resorts between Thirty-fourth and Fifty-ninth. Sure-thing boys are sure of nothing save this has been the toughest going of all summers.

* * *

The past week has increased my irritation over the constant efforts of novelists, playwrights and scenarists to picture the religious with martyrdom—"sicklied o'er by the pale cast of thought." I am fortunate in knowing a number of earnestly religious people. They are the healthiest, happiest and most prosperous of my acquaintance. Certainly they are the most tolerant. I have always found the greatest bigotry among non-churchmen.

* * *

In the days when Charles Chapin city-edited the Evening World, a legend in newspaper circles was that to arrive at 6 a. m. and ask for a job meant certain success. The saga was that Chapin always arrived at that hour. Yet it was only a legend. I know a dozen who tried it with no luck. Aside from myself, who had the same enchantingly child-like faith.

The glorification of the old hokey-pokey salesmen on the small town circus lot has Riverside Drive as its setting. Brisk young men in immaculate white suits and caps solicit motorists with chocolate-coated squares of ice cream on sticks. So unusual has been the response, soda fountains report a marked slump in evening patronage.

* * *

Our town gave to the big tops a talented hokey-pokey vendor. He was a house painter who quit his calling for the circus. Eventually he became a balloonist, soaring aloft wearing green tights and waving airily from his trapeze. Upon his occasional returns he was a great hero to every boy. He used to wear a strap of leather tightly about his wrist. Secretly I affected the same innovation, made from a school book carrier. I never knew until many years later the strap was to ward off wrist strains from heavy lifting. Imagine!

* * *

Indeed, every boy in our town had the circus bug. It was the birthplace of McCormack's Silver Plate Circus—a wagon show that rehearsed on the academy lot before taking the road each spring. There was scarcely a youngster who could not walk a slack wire, turn a cartwheel, perform trick bicycling or somersault from a horizontal bar.

* * *

Among my accomplishments was Indian club juggling. I attained the ambidexterity of keeping four clubs in the air simultaneously. Then one day I missed. There were four distinctly sounding clunks and a close-up of the heavens in starry, twirling flurry. Harry Maddy and Wayne Sanns carried me, feet up, to grandma. And the circus's loss became literature's what-have-you.

LISTEN, WORLD -:-

By Elsie Robinson

I said that day-dreams were dangerous dope; that, like other narcotics, they offered an escape from reality which weak souls took to their own undoing.

How did I know? Because I had wasted plenty of my own life in the dope of dreams, and I know they're bad medicine.

But Rachael won't believe it.

"You say that day-dreaming is a sort of death, and that day-dreamers are half ghosts," she writes. "You say that every time we evade reality and drift into day-dreams, we choose to die. But why shouldn't I evade reality? I do it all the time, because I can't bear my monotonous life.

"I go to work every morning and come home in the evening and do the same thing over and over again; go for a walk with a girl-friend, or stay home. What pleasure can I find in reality like that? I never get the breaks. So, of course, I day-dream of the things I'd like to do. That's as near as I'll ever get to them."

Yes, that's as near as you will ever get to them, little girl, if you keep on dreaming. But it isn't as near as you COULD get to them if you would stop dreaming and face reality.

Other people, so you think, have the breaks. Other people are born in delightful environments and have charming and exciting things happen to them; but Fate loaded the dice against you, and so you take refuge in day-dreams.

You day-dream because you believe that that is your only chance of happiness. Since you can never own real castles, you build yourself castles in Spain.

Is that the way you feel about it all? Then you feel wrongly, my dear.

REALITY IS WHAT WE MAKE IT.

We cannot always control the things which happen to us, but we can control our attitude toward those things.

We cannot help being born into dullness, but we can help staying dull ourselves.

We cannot always help poverty and pain and loss, but we can find adventure and beauty and wonder and get wisdom in those circumstances if we will seek them.

Take your own life. You hate its stupid stagnation. You should hate it. But you shouldn't try to escape it by day-dreams, for day-dreams won't cure that stupid stagnation. They will only give you a little temporary opiate, and leave you shackled to the thing you hate.

You had intelligence enough to write an honest and fearless letter. That same intelligence, if you'll put it to work, can remake your whole existence. There are adventures all around you which will not cost you a cent. Millions of fine books to be read, fine pictures to be seen. Interesting crafts you could learn at any night school.

CUT OUT THE DREAMING, YOUNGSTER, AND LIVE, INSTEAD! FATE IS AS YOU TAKE IT! LIFE IS WHAT YOU MAKE IT!

Making the Issue Clear

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

I, for one, did not have to wait for a statement from Al Smith to know his position in the present campaign. His political career has been based on fixed fundamental principles of government and these are the principles of the party he has served and by which he has been honored. He has the notion that governments are made for men and not men for governments, and made for all men and not for some men, and that makes inevitable his position in this or any other campaign in many years.

He said in his statement all that need be said when he said that he was not satisfied with the theories of government that have been put in operation during the last 12 years. These theories have been strictly Hamiltonian and anti-Jeffersonian. They are the theories of the old Federalist party that Tammany Hall was organized to fight in the days of Jefferson. And these theories have wrought the ruin of the nation within these 12 years when they have run amuck.

The Democratic party enters the campaign to fight these theories and to substitute the theories of equal rights. The issues are made for Al Smith. We predict he will be found in the thick of the fray when the real fighting starts and "one blast upon his bugle horn is worth a thousand men."

Shouse Put Party In Fighting Trim

So, too, with Jouett Shouse, from whom no statement should have been asked. There was sheer impudence in the assumption that there could be more than one answer from him. No human being has done more to put the party in fighting trim; no one has done a better job of putting the principles and policies of his party impressively before the people. He has devoted three strenuous years to intensive work for the Democracy, and it was sheer impertinence to inquire if he intends to back-track on all he has said and done in response to his political principles to give the nation four more years of Hoover.

So the "disaffection" for which the Knights of Rapidan had hoped has not materialized. But noted Republicans have made clear their separation from the policies of the Hoover administration.

The disaffection is all upon the other side as far as the political leaders are concerned. And no one need inquire where the disaffection lies with the great mass of the people who have no special political importance as individuals.

Mr. Hoover Hostile To Any Relief

The fight over the relief bill in Congress illustrates perfectly the divergency of the views of the two schools of political thought in this country. It dates back to the days of Jefferson and Hamilton. Mr. Hoover for three years has assumed an attitude that is coldly hostile to any relief from the national government to the men who are denied their inalienable right to work. There is no sense in mincing words while children are starving—he has fought every adequate plan proposed that would extend federal aid to put these men to work.

When private charity was flooding the mails with appeals for funds on the ground that 5,000,000 breadwinners were on the street, his administration actually juggled the figures of the census to show that 50 per cent of the jobless were at work.

Within the last six months he petulantly has complained that the wicked Democrats were grossly exaggerating the suffering of the people.

He has opposed a prosperity loan to put men to work on wages to be spent with the hard-pressed merchants.

And to meet his opposition in a spirit of conciliation, because help is so desperately needed and because half a loaf is better than none, compromises have been made that are almost indefensible.

But that has not been enough for Mr. Hoover.

He can see no reason why Government, using the money of all of us, should attempt to serve with the money of all of us any one but the railroads and banks and the more powerful corporations.

The Congress was willing to serve all these — although it knew that in normal times such a thing would be entirely beyond the pale of reason.

The Federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation was formed and two billions of the money of all of us was turned over to it to be loaned out to these banks and railroads.

Some of us were shocked to learn that in one notable instance the money of all of us was turned over to a railroad that it might pay off a loan with J. P. Morgan & Co., and most of us thought that Morgan & Co. might well have renewed the loan.

The Old Story Of Privilege

But when Congress proposed that more money be turned over to the Federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation to be loaned to the smaller corporations and business enterprises able to give security as good or better than that of the railroads, Mr. Hoover steps in to smash the plan.

With smug assurance Mr. Hoover says he does not want the government to go into the banking business.

The answer is that Mr. Hoover has put it in the banking business and he has asked $2,000,000,000 of all our money to be used as loans to banks and railroads, and it is being loaned.

The Voice of The People

Because Speaker Garner has vigorously protested against this continuation of the very policy of privilege that has wrought our ruin, Mr. Snell, speaking for Mr. Hoover, calls him a "demagogue."

A "demagogue" has come to be a man who believes in equal rights.

Here is the heart of Garner's offending:

"He (Hoover) wants a select clientele for his bank, while the Democrats believe the masses of the taxpayers should participate in the benefits of the Finance Corporation, which has been of such assistance to the banks and the railroads."

The most impressive thing uttered in the debate in the House came from the gallery when Snell smugly called Garner a "demagogue" and a woman shouted:

"Remember November!"

Long ago Herbert Hoover brushed the jobless aside as beneath the dignity of governmental thought; now he has added the average businessman to his taboos.

We are going to determine in November whether this government is personally possessed by a very few at the top or whether it is the agency of all the people.

That is what makes this an epochal campaign; it may determine the attitude of the average man toward our American institutions.
